Muqaddimah — Introduction

How to use this volume

These notes form an ongoing compendium of the Masā'il al-Ḥajj lessons at Darul Uloom Wal Funoon, taught by Mufti Umar Aejaaz, compiled by Arif Shaikh.

The series explains when Hajj becomes farḍ upon a person: conditions of taklīf, then istiṭā'ah (capability)—provisions, transport, safety of travel, and rules for women—followed by the arkān (pillars) and wājibāt (obligatory actions) of Hajj.

How to use this book

1. Read each session in order; later lessons build on earlier ones.
2. Arabic terms appear as taught; difficult words are explained in brackets in the session notes.
3. Verify Quranic and hadith references in standard editions.
4. Download the latest PDF from the repository as new classes are added.

Masail e Hajj – Class 1 Summary

DATE May 11, 2026

TOPIC Conditions that make Hajj obligatory

Overview

This is a Fiqh (Islamic law) class discussing the conditions required for Hajj to become obligatory (Farz) upon a person. The teacher explains each condition with Quranic evidence, Hadith, and logical reasoning.

The Four Conditions

1. Bulugh (Reaching Puberty)

- Hajj is not obligatory on a child who has not yet reached puberty.
- If a child performs Hajj, it counts as Nafl (optional) – not as the obligatory Hajj.
- After reaching puberty, they must perform Hajj again as their first obligatory one.
- This is a commonly asked question, and the Hadith confirms it clearly.

2. Aql (Sound Mind)

- Hajj is not obligatory on a Majnun (a person who is mentally ill or has lost their mind).
- Sharia (Islamic law) does not address or obligate such a person.
- If they recover their mind and then perform Hajj with a fresh intention, that would count as the obligatory Hajj.

3. Islam

- Hajj is only obligatory on a Muslim.
- A non-Muslim's Hajj – even if performed many times – does not count.
- After accepting Islam, they must perform Hajj fresh as a Muslim.

Scholarly Debate on This Point

There is a difference of opinion between Hanafi scholars and Imam Shafi'i on whether non-Muslims are accountable (mukallaf) for Islamic acts of worship:

	Hanafi View	Imam Shafi'i's View
In this world	Non-Muslims are not obligated to perform Islamic acts	Same – they cannot perform them
In the Hereafter	They will not be questioned about Salah, Hajj, etc. – they go directly to punishment for disbelief	They will be questioned and punished for not performing these acts

Imam Shafi'i's evidence: The Quranic verse says “upon the people” – general, not “upon Muslims only.”

Hanafi response: The general wording becomes specific when read in context – the next part of the verse addresses non-believers separately, meaning the first part was specifically for Muslims. Also, logically, how can you make something obligatory on someone who cannot perform it?

4. Freedom (Not Being a Slave)

- Hajj is not obligatory on a slave (abd).

- Even if a slave performs Hajj 10 times, none of it counts as the obligatory Hajj.
- After gaining freedom, they must perform Hajj again from scratch.

Why? — The Two Required Capabilities

For Hajj to be obligatory, a person must have both:

1. Financial capability — ability to own money, food, and means of travel.
2. Physical capability — control over their own body and self.

A slave has neither — their body is controlled by their master, and they cannot own anything. So they are missing both conditions entirely.

Important Comparison: Slave vs. Poor Person (Faqir)

Situation	Slave	Poor Person (Faqir)
Hajj obligatory at start?	No	No
If they somehow perform Hajj, does it count?	No — still does not count	Yes — it counts as obligatory Hajj
Why the difference?	Missing both capabilities (financial + physical) even with master's permission	Only missing financial capability at start. When he arranges his travel and food and begins the journey, he fulfills the financial capability during the Hajj itself

Key point about the poor person: When he starts his journey and actually arranges food and travel — even if others helped him — he has now proven financial capability. So his Hajj turns into the obligatory one, and he does not need to repeat it even if he becomes wealthy later.

Exception: Why Does Salah (Prayer) Work Differently for a Slave?

A slave's Salah (prayer) counts as obligatory even though his Hajj does not. Here is the reasoning:

- A slave's physical services belong to his master — except for the time needed for obligatory prayers. Sharia gave this concession specifically for prayer.
- Prayer is short — it causes no significant harm or financial loss to the master.
- Hajj and Jihad involve long absence and financial expense — significant harm to the master.
- If Sharia counted a slave's Hajj as obligatory, slaves would rush to perform it and pressure their masters for permission — causing harm to masters both physically and financially.
- So Sharia protected the master's rights by not counting Hajj or Jihad as obligatory for a slave.

Also, counting Jumu'ah (Friday prayer) as valid for a slave actually benefits the master — because if it did not count, the slave would still need to pray Zuhr separately, taking even more time. So it is more practical and fair to count it.

Follow-Up Cases: What If a Condition Is Gained Mid-Hajj?

Child Who Reaches Puberty During Hajj

- Hanafi view: If he started with intention of Nafl (optional), it stays Nafl — even if he reaches puberty midway. He must start fresh with new intention as an adult for it to count as obligatory.
- Imam Shafi'i's view: If he reaches puberty before the key act of Wuquf (standing at Arafah), it can count as obligatory — because in his view, obligatory Hajj can be fulfilled even with a Nafl intention.

For It to Count as Obligatory (Hanafi view)

The person must:

1. Make a new intention (Niyyat) after gaining the condition (puberty, sanity, Islam, or freedom).
2. Recite Talbiyah freshly.
3. Perform the key pillars of Hajj — especially Wuquf at Arafah (standing at Arafah) and Tawaf al-Ziyarah (the obligatory circling of the Kaaba) — after gaining the condition.

Same rule applies to:

- A Majnun who regains sanity mid-Hajj.
- A Kafir who accepts Islam mid-Hajj.
- A Slave who is freed mid-Hajj (this case will be covered in the next class).

Q&A at the End: Why Is Ramadan Fasting Different?

Student's question: In Ramadan, even if someone starts fasting with a Nafl intention, it still counts as obligatory. Why doesn't the same apply to Hajj?

Teacher's answer:

- In Ramadan fasting, the person who is ill or traveling is already eligible for the obligation — they just have a temporary concession (choice) given to them by Sharia. They are fully capable of fasting being obligatory on them.
- A child or slave is not in that category at all — they are simply not in a state where anything can be made obligatory upon them.
- So whatever a child performs — it can only ever be Nafl, not obligatory — because the very foundation of eligibility is missing.
- But a sick or traveling adult is still fundamentally eligible — the concession is just a temporary allowance, not a removal of eligibility.

Closing

The teacher wraps up by saying:

- Four conditions covered: Puberty, Sound Mind, Islam, Freedom.
- More conditions are coming in future classes.
- Next class will continue with the case of the slave who is freed mid-Hajj.
- Next session will be at 7:15 inshallah.

Masail e Hajj — Class 2 Summary

DATE May 12, 2026

TOPIC Physical capability (Istita'at) for Hajj — the case of a blind person

Background

The fifth condition for Hajj to be obligatory is physical capability. The class examined the specific case of a blind person and whether Hajj is obligatory upon them.

Two scholarly opinions

Opinion 1 — Imam Abu Hanifa

Hajj is not obligatory upon a blind person to perform himself. His reasoning:

- A blind person cannot independently perform the actions of Hajj — he cannot travel, mount or dismount, or navigate without assistance.
- Any capability he has is dependent on another person, and that other person is not under his control.
- In Sharia, capability achieved through someone not in one's control does not count as true capability.
- Example given: an elderly person too weak to sit firmly — even if someone helps him, Hajj is still not obligatory on him.
- Obligating Hajj in such a case would create haraj (undue hardship), which Islam does not impose.

Opinion 2 — The Sahibain (Imam Abu Yusuf and Imam Muhammad) — preferred opinion

Hajj is obligatory upon a blind person if he has a guide. Their reasoning:

- A blind person is physically fit — he can perform all actions of Hajj: Tawaf, Rami (stoning), and all other rites.
- All he lacks is directional guidance, not physical ability.
- If a guide is available, he has no valid excuse.
- Therefore, if a guide is present, Hajj is obligatory upon him personally.

The Hadith argument (Zaad and Rahila)

The Sahibain argued that the Prophet ﷺ defined Istita'at (capability) as having Zaad (food and provision) and Rahila (means of travel) — and a blind person can have both.

Imam Abu Hanifa's response: The Prophet ﷺ mentioned Zaad and Rahila as examples, not as an exhaustive definition of capability. Evidence:

- A person blocked by a sea with no ship available is not obligated for Hajj, even if he has Zaad and Rahila.
- A person restricted by a government or enemy is likewise not obligated.
- This proves capability has additional conditions beyond just Zaad and Rahila.

Two cases of blindness — detailed ruling

Case 1: Blind before Hajj became obligatory on him

- If a guide is available → Hajj is obligatory; he must perform it himself.
- If no guide is available → Hajj is not obligatory; he does not need to send someone on his behalf.

Case 2: Became blind after Hajj was already obligatory on him (i.e. he delayed Hajj while healthy)

- If capable of traveling with a guide → He must perform it himself.
- If not capable of traveling → He must arrange for someone to perform Hajj-e-Badal (proxy Hajj) from his wealth, or make a wasiyyah (bequest) that it be done after his death.

Question raised by a student

Q: In Zakat, if a person's wealth is lost before paying, the obligation is lifted. Why doesn't the same apply to Hajj — i.e. why does Hajj remain obligatory even after blindness occurs?

A (brief): According to the Sahibain, blindness is not considered a major disability that makes a person incapable. It is a minor barrier. Therefore, since the obligation was already established while he was healthy, it remains — blindness alone does not remove it.

Next class

Wednesday (tomorrow) at 9:30 PM

Topic: the conditions related to arranging provisions and means of travel (Zaad and Rahila) for Hajj.

Ongoing schedule agreed:

- Monday and Wednesday → 9:30 PM
- Tuesday, Thursday, and Friday → 7:15 PM

Masail e Hajj — Class 3 Summary

DATE May 13, 2026

TOPIC Conditions of Hajj — Zad & Rahila (Travel Expenses & Transport)

TEACHER Mufti Umar Aejaaz

Introduction

This lesson discusses one of the key conditions (شروط) that make Hajj obligatory (فرض) upon a person — specifically the condition of Zad (زاد) and Rahila (راحلة).

Important note: This condition applies only to someone who lives away from Makkah. A Makki (person residing in Makkah) can walk to the Haram easily, so the transport condition does not apply to him in the same way — similar to how someone walks to the Masjid for Jumu'ah.

Two Key Terms

- Zad (زاد) — Travel provisions, meaning food, stay, and all expenses needed during the journey.
- Rahila (راحلة) — The means of transport, whether an animal (in old times), a vehicle, or a flight ticket today.

Central Question: Is Ownership Required?

Before getting into the opinions of the scholars, two concepts must be understood:

- Milk (ملك) — Full ownership. You own something completely and can use it, sell it, or give it away however you like.
- Ibaha (إباحة) — Permission to use. Someone else owns it but permits you to use it. You have no independent authority over it.

Opinions of the Four Imams

Imam Abu Hanifa and the Hanafi Majority

Both Zad and Rahila must be in your full ownership (Milk). If someone merely gives you permission (Ibaha) to use their food and transport, Hajj does NOT become obligatory upon you. The argument is that Ibaha can be withdrawn at any moment — you do not have guaranteed, unconditional access — so full Istita'at (استطاعة — capability) is not achieved through it.

Imam Shafi'i (رحمه الله)

Both Zad and Rahila are required, BUT Ibaha (permission to use) is also sufficient. If someone from your close family — like your father — arranges and permits you to use his food and transport as his responsibility, Hajj becomes obligatory upon you. However, if a complete stranger (Ajnabi) does this, Imam Shafi'i has two opinions — one says Hajj becomes obligatory, another says it does not.

He also used the example of Tayammum (تيمم — dry ablution using dust when water is unavailable): if someone permits you to use his water, you are NOT eligible for Tayammum because water is accessible to you. Similarly, if someone permits you to use his Zad and Rahila, you are capable — so Hajj is obligatory.

The Hanafi counter-argument: The rule of Tayammum is different. The Quran says you may do Tayammum when you cannot find water — that means you have no access at all, neither by ownership nor by permission. So that example does not apply here. For Hajj, the Quran demands full and unconditional capability (Istita'at), which Ibaha cannot guarantee since permission can be taken back at any time.

Imam Malik (رحمه الله)

Rahila (means of transport) is NOT a condition at all. If a person is healthy and physically capable of walking the entire journey, Hajj is obligatory upon him even if he has no vehicle, ticket, or animal.

His argument is from the Quran:

وَلِلّٰهِ عَلَى النَّاسِ حِجُّ الْبَيْتِ مَنِ اسْتَطَاعَ اِلَيْهِ سَبِيْلًا

“And upon Allah is the duty of Hajj for the people — for whoever is able to find a way to it.” (Aal Imran: 97)

He says this ayah does not specifically mention a vehicle. A healthy person who can walk has found a way — so Hajj is upon him.

The Hanafi response: The great scholars of tafsir (Quranic interpretation) have explained this very ayah to include two specific requirements — Zad (provisions) and Rahila (transport). Walking the entire journey is not a realistic or easy undertaking, so it cannot be used as the measure of capability for a person living far from Makkah.

What Happens if Someone Gifts You a Hajj Ticket?

If someone gifts (هدية — Hadiya, a gift where ownership transfers) you a flight ticket and arranges your food — ownership is now yours — so Istita'at could be achieved. But is it obligatory upon you to accept this gift?

- According to the Hanafis: No. Accepting a gift is not compulsory. You are not sinful for declining.
- Imam Shafi'i has two opinions on this as well.

How Much Does One Need? — The Criteria of Zad & Rahila

The financial capability required for Hajj to become obligatory means the following must all be in place simultaneously:

1. Enough money to cover your travel to Makkah and back using some means of transport (not on foot if you are far).
2. A moderate (average, not luxurious) stay and food package during the journey — no extravagance required, but comfort must be manageable.

3. All of the above must be over and above your essential needs. Things already in your use are NOT counted — these include:
- The house you live in
 - Your servant (Khadim — خادم)
 - Your horse or personal vehicle
 - Your weapons (in the classical context)
 - Your clothing and furniture
 - All other daily-use items
4. You must also arrange the expenses (Nafaqa — نفقة) of your dependents — family, servants — for the entire period you will be away for Hajj. This includes both food and clothing.
5. Any debts (Dain — دين) you owe must be subtracted first. Example given: if you have 10 lakh rupees but owe 8 lakh in debts, only 2 lakh remains — if that is insufficient for Hajj expenses, Hajj is not yet obligatory upon you.

How Long Must Family Expenses Be Arranged?

Some older scholarly opinions say one month's expenses must remain in your account even after returning from Hajj. Others say one full year.

The teacher clarifies: these older opinions were based on the reality of that era — Hajj journeys sometimes took a full year or more by animal travel. Today the journey takes hours, and a stay of one to four weeks is typical. So the rule is simply: arrange your family's expenses for however long you will be away. If it is 10 days, then 10 days. If one month, then one month.

Special Cases Discussed

Case 1 — Shared Transport

If a Rahila is shared between two people on a rotation — one rides while the other walks, then they switch — this is NOT sufficient. The Rahila must be available to you for the entire journey without interruption.

Case 2 — Extra House Not in Use

If a person owns an extra house he does not live in and does not rent out, and its value is enough to fund Hajj, then according to Ibn Shuja' (a Hanafi scholar), it IS counted. He must sell it and perform Hajj. He also cannot take Zakat in this situation since the value of this property reaches Nisab (نصاب — minimum threshold of wealth).

Case 3 — Expensive House Being Used

If a person lives in a house worth 50 lakh rupees, and a simpler house is available for 30 lakh — could he sell, downgrade, and use the leftover money for Hajj? The answer is No. The house he currently lives in is an essential need and is not counted. He is not required to downgrade his home to fund Hajj. However, if he chooses to do so voluntarily, that is a good deed (Nafal — نافلة — voluntary good act) for him.

Case 4 — Person with Savings but No House or Servant

Abu Yusuf (رحمه الله), the student of Imam Abu Hanifa, says: if a person has money in hand sufficient for Hajj but has no house (living on rent) and no servant — and he can arrange family expenses for the Hajj period — then Hajj is immediately obligatory. He should NOT delay it by first buying a house or hiring a servant. He can continue living on rent as he already is. Spending that money on a house first — instead of Hajj — would make him sinful, because Hajj was already obligatory upon him at that point.

Case 5 — Food for the Family

It does not mean the family must be left with a full year's food stored at home. It means enough provision must be arranged to cover the family's needs for the period of absence. Any additional stockpiling beyond that is unnecessary.

Conclusion of This Section

The obligatory nature of Hajj requires:

- Full ownership of Zad and Rahila (Hanafi position)
- Both must be beyond your essential needs and beyond your debts
- Family expenses for the duration of the trip must be covered
- The Rahila must be available throughout the entire journey, not on a rotation

Next lesson: The next condition for Hajj — that the journey must be safe and secure.

Masail e Hajj — Class 4 Summary

DATE May 18, 2026

TOPIC Safety of travel (Amn al-Tariq), women's conditions for Hajj, and mahram rules

TEACHER Mufti Umar Aejaz

Introduction

This class continues the conditions of Istita'at (استطاعة) [capability] that make Hajj Farz (فرض) [obligatory]. Class 3 covered Zad (زاد) [travel provisions] and Rahila (راحلة) [means of transport]. Today's focus:

1. Amn al-Tariq (أمن الطريق) — safety and security of the journey.
2. Conditions specific to women — especially mahram (محرم) and related rules.

General conditions (Zad, Rahila, physical capability, etc.) apply to men and women both. A few extra conditions apply only to women.

Part 1 — Amn al-Tariq (Safety of Travel)

Central question

If a person has money and transport but travel is not safe for any reason, is Hajj still obligatory?

Opinion 1 — Not preferred: safety is a condition for performance, not for obligation

- Hajj becomes Farz on him even without safe travel.
- He is not obliged to actually go until the road becomes safe.
- Practical result: If he never got safety in his life and is now dying, Hajj-e-Badal (حج البدل) [proxy Hajj] and wasiyyah (وصية) [bequest] may be required — because Hajj was already obligatory on him, only performance was delayed.

Their evidence — Hadith of Zad and Rahila

When the Prophet ﷺ was asked what capability (istita'ah) for Hajj means, he mentioned only food/provisions and a riding animal — no mention of safety:

عَنْ أَبِي هُرَيْرَةَ رَضِيَ اللَّهُ عَنْهُ قَالَ: قَالَ رَسُولُ اللَّهِ صَلَّى اللَّهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ: «مَنْ مَلَكَ زَادًا يُبْلَغُهُ إِلَى كَعْبَةِ اللَّهِ وَسَبِيلًا يَسِيرُ فِيهِ إِلَى بَيْتِ اللَّهِ فَلَيْسَ لَهُ أَنْ يَتْرَكَ حَجَّ بَيْتِ اللَّهِ»

“Whoever possesses provision that reaches him to the Ka‘bah of Allah and a path by which he may travel to the House of Allah — he must not leave performing Hajj of the House of Allah.”

Ref: Sahih Muslim, 1331; Sahih al-Bukhari, 1521 (narration of Abu Hurayrah رضى الله عنه).

Their argument: Since the hadith does not mention amn (أمن) [safety], safety is not a condition for obligation — only for going.

Opinion 2 – Preferred (Hanafi): safety is a condition for obligation itself

- Without safety, Hajj is not Farz at all – not merely delayed.
- If he dies without ever having safe travel, Hajj-e-Badal is not Wajib (واجب) [obligatory] on him before death, because Hajj was never established as Farz on him.

Quranic basis

Allah tied Hajj to true capability:

وَلِلّٰهِ عَلَى النَّاسِ حِجُّ الْبَيْتِ مَنِ اسْتَطَاعَ اِلَيْهِ سَبِيْلًا

“Hajj to the House is a duty owed to Allah by people – for whoever is able to find a way to it.”

Ref: Surah Aal Imran, 3:97.

Logic: A person cannot be mustati‘ (مستطيع) [truly capable] if the road is unsafe – just as he cannot be capable without Zad and Rahila. Istita’at requires that travel be realistically possible, which includes security.

Answer to the hadith (Zad and Rahila only)

The hadith mentions Zad and Rahila as examples (tamthil / jumla ‘ala al-ghalib) of what people normally need – not as an exhaustive list of every part of capability.

Proof the list is not limited to two things:

Situation	Has Zad + Rahila?	Hajj Farz?
Blocked by sea, no ship	Yes	No
Blocked by enemy / government	Yes	No
Unsafe road	Yes	No (preferred view)

Similarly, the same hadith does not mention physical fitness (quwwah badaniyyah) – yet everyone agrees a paralysed person without help is not obligated. The hadith describes what is usually enough, not every condition.

Key principle: The real shart (شرط) [condition] is full Istita’at. Whatever is needed to make travel truly possible – Zad, Rahila, and Amn – falls under that.

Comparison: Zad, Rahila, and Amn

	Zad	Rahila	Amn al-Tariq
Meaning	Provisions for journey	Transport	Safety of the way
Without it, can he travel?	No	No	No
Listed in the hadith?	Yes (as example)	Yes (as example)	No – but same rule
Role in obligation	Part of Istita'at	Part of Istita'at	Part of Istita'at

Case – Rich, capable, but never had safe travel; now dying

View	Hajj ever Farz on him?	Hajj-e-Badal before death?
Preferred (Hanafi)	No	Not Wajib
Other opinion	Yes (obligation without performance)	Wajib (wasiyyah / Badal)

Part 2 – Conditions Specific to Women

Two extra conditions (Hanafi study); the second will be completed next class:

1. Mahram (محرّم) – availability, readiness, and financial maintenance (nafaqa / zad) of the mahram.
2. Not in Hayd / 'Iddah (حَيْض / عِدَّة) [menstruation or waiting period] – when travel for Hajj is not allowed; next class insha'Allah.

Part 2A – Mahram: Hanafi vs Imam Shafi'i

Hanafi position (preferred in this class)

- Without a mahram (or husband), Hajj is not Farz on the woman.
- She cannot travel for Hajj alone, even if she is wealthy.
- Going without mahram is not valid as the obligatory Hajj she owes.

Evidence – Hadith specific to Hajj

لَا يَحِلُّ لِمَرْأَةٍ تُؤْمِنُ بِاللَّهِ وَالْيَوْمِ الْآخِرِ أَنْ تَحُجَّ إِلَّا مَعَ مَحْرَمٍ

“It is not lawful for a woman who believes in Allah and the Last Day to perform Hajj except with a mahram.”

Ref: Sunan al-Tirmidhi, 1174 (hasan); Ahmad, 1/393 — as cited in fiqh works; wording as taught in class.

Meaning: If Hajj without mahram is haram / not permitted, it cannot be obligated upon her in that state — you cannot command what Sharia forbids.

Evidence — General travel hadith

لَا يَحِلُّ لِمَرْأَةٍ تُؤْمِنُ بِاللَّهِ وَالْيَوْمِ الْآخِرِ أَنْ تُسَافِرَ مَسِيرَةَ يَوْمٍ وَلَيْلَةٍ إِلَّا مَعَ ذِي مَحْرَمٍ

“It is not lawful for a woman who believes in Allah and the Last Day to travel a distance of one day and one night except with a mahram.”

Ref: Sahih al-Bukhari, 1088; Sahih Muslim, 1341 (hadith of Ibn ‘Abbas رضي الله عنه).

Distance: In early times this was estimated as about 48 miles (77 km) — Safar (سفر) [long journey] in Sharia terms. Hajj from outside Makkah is always this type of travel.

Two reasons for mahram (as taught)

1. Protection (hifz / amn) — from non-mahram men on a long journey; women need a protector.
2. Physical support — travel is hard; a mahram helps her during the journey.

Both apply to young and old women — an elderly woman may need support more, and protection is needed at every age.

‘Aql (عقل) / logic used in class: Women are described in classical discourse as needing protection on long travel like something exposed unless covered — mahram is that protection in Sharia.

Imam Shafi‘i’s position (mentioned for contrast — not Hanafi fatwa)

- If trustworthy, reliable Muslim women are with her in the group, Hajj can be Farz even without mahram.
- He uses the general ayah of Hajj on “whoever is capable” — no mention of mahram in the verse.

Hanafi answer to the ayah

(Aal Imran: 97) وَلِلَّهِ عَلَى النَّاسِ حِجُّ الْبَيْتِ مَنِ اسْتَطَاعَ إِلَيْهِ سَبِيلًا

The ayah speaks about one who is truly mustati‘. A woman without mahram is not considered capable in Sharia for this type of journey — so she does not fall under this general wording. Capability for her includes mahram.

Hanafi answer to “other women will protect her”

- Other women are also not safe alone on long travel in the same way.
- A larger group of women does not remove the need for mahram — harm and fitnah (فتنة) [temptation / moral risk] can increase, not decrease.

- Khalwah (خلوة) [seclusion] with a non-mahram man is haram even if other women are present – so protection by women alone is insufficient.

Part 2B – Mahram Must Be Ready and Financially Covered

Hajj is Farz on the woman only when all of the following are already in place:

1. Mahram (or husband) exists and is willing to travel with her.
2. She has enough wealth for her own Zad, Rahila, and journey costs.
3. She has enough wealth for the mahram's journey costs as well – nafaqa (نفقة) [maintenance] of the mahram for that trip.

Important: It is her duty to afford the mahram's expenses for Hajj – not the mahram's duty to pay for himself so she can go. If she cannot afford both, Hajj is not Farz on her.

Scenarios

Situation	Hajj Farz on her?	Can she go alone?
No mahram at all	No	No
Mahram exists but refuses to travel	No	No – she cannot force him
Mahram ready but she cannot pay his costs	No	No
Mahram ready, she can pay both	Yes	Yes – with mahram
She has money; tries to go alone without mahram	No (not Farz)	No – not allowed

She does not have to:

- Force the mahram to travel.
- Borrow money or put herself in hardship to arrange the mahram's costs – if money is not there easily, Hajj is not Farz.
- Get married just to obtain a mahram for Hajj.

Analogy – poor man: A poor man is not told to borrow and suffer to create Zad and Rahila. Likewise, a woman is not told to borrow to create the mahram's expenses.

Principle: If an 'ibadah is tied to a condition, you perform it when the condition exists – you are not obliged to create the condition by hardship. When the condition is missing, leave it – Hajj is not Farz.

Optional: Some women collect money over years for Hajj by choice – that is Nafl / optional effort, not a Sharia command.

Two opinions — must she arrange mahram's costs if she is rich enough?

Opinion	Ruling
Preferred (Hanafi)	She needs enough for herself + mahram easily. No need to borrow or struggle.
Other opinion	Zad and Rahila are enough for her ; she must try to arrange mahram's costs herself.

Preferred view reasoning: Same as above — Sharia does not command takalluf (تكلف) [unnecessary burden] to manufacture a condition.

Part 2C — Husband's Permission

Journey type	Husband's permission (Hanafi)
Normal long travel	Required — she is generally under his permission for travel
Hajj / 'Umrah when Hajj is Farz and all conditions met	Not required — exception for 'ibadah (عبادة)
Nafl travel (e.g. optional 'Umrah for pleasure)	Husband may stop her — not the same as Farz Hajj

Hanafi proof by analogy: She does not need husband's permission for obligatory Salah or Ramadan fast when due — similarly, Farz Hajj when fully due is an exception.

Imam Shafi'i: She still needs husband's permission even for obligatory Hajj — because of marital rights (huquq al-zawj).

Class conclusion: Hanafi view accepted for Farz Hajj — no permission needed when Hajj is truly Wajib and all shurut are met.

Example: Brother is mahram, ready to go, she has money for both — Hajj is Farz; she may go even if husband refuses (Hanafi).

Part 2D — What Counts as Mahram?

Mahram = a man with whom marriage is permanently impossible (haram forever) — by blood, nursing, or permanent marriage relationship (e.g. father, son, brother, father-in-law, son-in-law).

Not sufficient:

- Temporary mahram — e.g. a relationship that only blocks marriage for a limited time; not valid for this travel rule.
- Immature boy — mahram by relation but too young to protect anyone.
- Majnun (مجنون) [insane person] — cannot handle a hard journey.
- Majusi (مجوسي) [fire-worshipper] non-Muslim mahram — in their religion incest may be permitted; not a safe companion in Sharia's view.
- Kafir (كافر) non-Muslim mahram who is not majusi — some allowance in discussion (e.g. Christian brother may travel if he protects honour); except the majusi case as taught.

Young girl: A small girl not yet at the age where fitnah is feared (class example: before about nine years) — may travel without mahram for long distance, because the reason for the rule does not apply to her yet. After that age, mahram is required for Safar.

Distance rule: Mahram is required for Safar $\approx$ 48 miles or more. Less than that — e.g. woman living in Makkah going to the Haram — no mahram condition for that short trip (same idea as going to the masjid).

All schools agree (as taught): Even an elderly woman may not do long Hajj travel without mahram — hadith is ‘amm (عام) [general for all women], not limited by age.

Part 2E — Second Condition (Preview)

Not in Hayd or ‘Iddah — while in menstruation or ‘iddah, she is not allowed to travel for Hajj; therefore Hajj is not Farz during that time. When it ends, it may become Farz if other conditions exist. Details: next class.

Q&A from Class

Q1 — If I get wealth only shortly before Hajj (e.g. one month before Dhul Hijjah), when does Hajj become Farz?

Answer: Unlike Zakat, there is no fixed “one year on wealth” rule for Hajj. Hajj is tied to Istita’at, not a calendar year on money.

- Whenever you have enough to arrange the journey (reserve seat, provisions, family expenses, mahram’s costs if applicable, etc.), Hajj becomes Wajib.
- No specific “one month / one week before Hajj season” in Sharia — only capability matters.
- Best practice: Perform Hajj as early as possible once it becomes Farz — do not delay without reason.

Q2 — Hajj became Farz; then I lost the money and never got it again. Is Hajj still Farz?

Answer: Yes — it remains Farz on the person.

	Zakat	Hajj
Tied to	Wealth (mal)	The person
If wealth gone before paying	Obligation drops	Obligation does not drop
Reason	Zakat is on the money itself	Mal was only the trigger ; once Farz, it stays on him until done

He must perform Hajj when capability returns — Hajj-e-Badal rules apply if he dies while still owing it (if Hajj had truly become Farz earlier).

Q3 – Today women travel in groups for ‘Umrah/Hajj; visas are issued without mahram. How do we convey the Hanafi ruling?

Answer (as taught):

- Government visas and group travel do not change Allah’s ruling.
- If Sharia requires mahram and she goes without it, the journey is not the Shari‘ Hajj/‘Umrah Allah wants – even if rituals are done.
- ‘Ibadah = what Allah commanded, not personal desire.
- Hanafi and Shafi‘i both have strict rules; Shafi‘i allows some group-of-women scenarios for obligation – Hanafi does not approve that for lifting the mahram requirement.
- Sensitivity of women’s safety in Sharia is severe (shadid) – do not treat it lightly because of modern custom.

Practical note for students: Teach with wisdom and clarity; rulings are from Sharia, not from visa policy.

Summary Table – When Is Hajj Farz on a Woman? (Hanafi)

Condition	Required?
Bulugh, ‘Aql, Islam, freedom (general shurut)	Yes
Zad + Rahila (own + family + debts cleared)	Yes
Amn al-Tariq	Yes
Mahram or husband available & willing	Yes
Her + mahram’s travel costs affordable	Yes
Not in hayd/‘iddah (for travel)	Yes
Husband’s permission (when Hajj is Farz)	No (Hanafi)

Closing

- Covered: Amn al-Tariq (preferred: condition for obligation), mahram, costs, permission, types of mahram, distance, Q&A.
- Next class: Second women’s condition – hayd / ‘iddah; same time as scheduled.

Schedule (as agreed in series):

- Monday & Wednesday → 9:30 PM
 - Tuesday, Thursday & Friday → 7:15 PM

Key Arabic Terms (Quick Reference)

Arabic	Meaning
استطاعة	Capability for Hajj
أمن الطريق	Safety of the road
محرم	Unmarriageable relative (for travel)
سفر	Long journey (~48+ miles)
نفقة	Maintenance / expenses
حج البديل	Hajj by proxy
وصية	Bequest
فتنة	Trial / moral temptation
تكلف	Burden / forcing hardship

Masail e Hajj — Class 5 Summary

DATE May 19, 2026

TOPIC Iddah Travel Restrictions, Scenarios of Talaq/Wafat During Hajj Journey, and Hajj Badal

TEACHER Mufti Umar Aejaaz

Introduction

This class continued the study of conditions specific to women that affect the obligation of Hajj. After covering the condition of Mahram in prior sessions, two further topics were addressed today:

1. The second women-specific condition: she must not be in a state of ‘Iddah (عِدَّة) [waiting period after divorce or the death of a husband].
2. Scenarios of what happens when talaq or the husband’s death occurs during the Hajj journey.
3. The ruling of Hajj Badal (حَجٌّ بَدَل) [Hajj performed on behalf of another] for those physically or otherwise unable to perform Hajj themselves.
4. The condition that financial capability must coincide with the season of Hajj for the obligation to become binding.

Second Condition Specific to Women: Absence of ‘Iddah

A woman in her ‘iddah period — whether due to divorce or the death of her husband — is not permitted to leave her home. This is based on the Quranic command:

لَا تُخْرِجُوهُنَّ مِنْ بُيُوتِهِنَّ وَلَا يَخْرُجْنَ

“Do not expel them from their homes, and they themselves should not leave.”

Ref: Surah al-Talaq (65:1)

Because she is restricted from traveling during the ‘iddah, Hajj does not become obligatory upon her during this period, even if all other conditions are met.

Evidence from the Companions: ‘Abdullah ibn ‘Umar and ‘Abdullah ibn Mas’ud (رضي الله عنهما) returned women who were in ‘iddah and had set out for Hajj.

Reasoning: The ‘iddah is time-bound and cannot be delayed. Hajj, by contrast, can be performed in any subsequent year. Therefore, the ‘iddah takes priority.

Scenarios: Talaq or Husband’s Death During the Hajj Journey

If a woman had already departed for Hajj and the talaq or death of her husband occurred mid-journey, the rulings vary by circumstances.

Talaq al-Raj'i (Revocable Divorce)

The Nikah relationship has not yet ended. The husband may accompany her and continue the journey. It is preferred (mustahabb) for the husband to revoke (raj'at) the talaq so she is more comfortable during travel. The journey continues for both.

Talaq al-Ba'in / Death of Husband (Relationship Ended)

The husband is no longer her Mahram and cannot continue traveling with her. She is now in 'iddah — either 'Iddah al-Talaq or 'Iddah al-Wafat (عِدَّةُ الْوَفَاةِ) [waiting period after the husband's death]. The following four cases determine what she must do:

Case 1: Her Home is Closer (Less than Mafat al-Safar)

Mafat al-Safar (مَسَافَةُ السَّفَرِ) [the distance that defines travel in Shari'ah] = approximately 48 miles.

If the distance back to her home is less than 48 miles, and Makkah is farther away, she returns home. Going back would not constitute a new journey (safar shar'i), so she fulfills her 'iddah there as intended.

Case 2: Makkah is Closer (Less than Mafat al-Safar)

If Makkah is now less than 48 miles away, and her home is farther, she continues forward to Makkah. The remaining distance does not constitute safar, so the Mahram requirement no longer applies. She performs Hajj and observes 'iddah there.

Case 3: Both Home and Makkah are Within 48 Miles

Neither direction constitutes a full safar shar'i. In this case, she has a free choice — she may go forward to perform Hajj or return home. Both are permissible.

Case 4: Both Home and Makkah are Farther than 48 Miles (The Debated Case)

This is the scenario of a traveler from a distant country (e.g., India) who is stranded in the middle of the journey — both her home and Makkah are more than 48 miles away.

The question: Should she stay, go forward, or go back?

This depends on whether the place where she currently is constitutes a safe and comfortable city (misr).

If she is in a safe, comfortable city (Misr):

Scholar	Ruling
Imam Abu Hanifa	She must remain in that city and complete her full ‘iddah there, even if another Mahram joins her. That city is treated as her home for ‘iddah purposes.
Sahibayn (Imam Abu Yusuf & Imam Muhammad)	If a Mahram joins her, she may continue traveling. Without a Mahram, she must stay regardless.

If she is in an unsafe or uncomfortable place (e.g., a small village):

She cannot remain there safely. In this case:

Scholar	Ruling
Imam Abu Hanifa	She must travel to the next safe city and remain there for her ‘iddah.
Sahibayn	If joined by a Mahram, she may continue all the way and complete her ‘iddah while traveling.

Core difference of opinion: Does the city where she finds herself become her legal domicile (home) for the purpose of ‘iddah? - Imam Abu Hanifa: Yes — she must remain and observe ‘iddah there. - Sahibayn: No — it is a foreign city; ‘iddah continues to count while she travels.

Note on ‘Iddah Commencement

The ‘iddah begins automatically at the moment of talaq or at the moment of the husband’s death. It does not need to be formally initiated. The counting continues uninterrupted, regardless of whether she is stationary or traveling.

Hajj Badal (حَجُّ بَدَل) — Proxy Hajj

Definition and Obligation

A person who: - Possesses sufficient wealth (māl) to send someone for Hajj, and - Is unable to perform Hajj personally due to a physical disability, chronic illness, extreme old age, or an external barrier such as security conditions

...is obligated to send another person to perform Hajj on their behalf. This is called Hajj Badal.

This Hajj Badal is counted as their Fard Hajj (first obligatory Hajj).

If the Person Performs Hajj Themselves Despite the Barrier

If such a person crosses their own barrier and personally performs Hajj (e.g., despite illness or disability), their Hajj is valid and counted as Fard. Shari’ah did not require them to cross that barrier, but having done so, their Hajj obligation is fulfilled.

Recovery After Hajj Badal

If the Hajj Badal has already been performed on their behalf, and the person later recovers fully and regains the physical capability:

- The Hajj Badal performed is now considered nafl (supererogatory), not Fard.
- They are now obligated to perform Hajj themselves, provided they still have the financial means and meet all conditions.

Reasoning: Hajj Badal was permitted due to necessity. When the necessity is removed, the original obligation of performing Hajj personally is restored.

Analogy: The Poor Person Who Performs Hajj

A person who is financially incapable of Hajj but nonetheless manages to go and perform it — fulfilling all other conditions (sane, adult, free) — has performed their Fard Hajj. They need not repeat it. Although the financial condition was not met, they themselves crossed that barrier, so Shari'ah counts it.

Comparison with a Slave or Minor:

Person	Status	Hajj Counts as Fard?
Poor person who manages to go	Subject of obligation, financial condition absent	✅ Yes — barrier crossed
Slave (abd)	Not a subject of the obligation	❌ No — must repeat after freedom
Minor (child)	Not a subject of the obligation	❌ No — must repeat after maturity

A slave or minor performing Hajj must repeat it once they become legally responsible (mukallaf). This is because they were never the subject (mahall) of the obligation in the first place — unlike the poor free adult, who is a subject of the obligation; the barrier was only the financial one.

Analogy with Jumu'ah: If a slave attends and performs Jumu'ah, it is counted as his Jumu'ah prayer and he does not need to make up Zuhr. Similarly, if a slave performs Hajj, the situation differs — because the foundational obligation of Hajj does not rest upon him as it does for a free person.

Financial Capability and the Hajj Season

Two Scenarios

Scenario 1 — Capability Acquired Outside the Hajj Season:

A person acquires sufficient māl, but the Hajj season is not currently open. In this case, he is free to spend that money as he wishes. Hajj does not become immediately obligatory. He may save it for Hajj or use it for other purposes.

Scenario 2 — Capability Acquired During the Hajj Season (or Carried Over Into It):

If a person has the māl and the Hajj season arrives — i.e., the time when people are preparing and departing for Hajj — then it becomes obligatory upon him to use that māl for Hajj. He is no longer free to spend it elsewhere on non-necessities.

Analogy with Wudu' and Water: - If a person has water and it is not time for Salah, he may use it freely. - If the time of Salah enters and he has water, it becomes obligatory to use it for wudu'. He may not divert it for other non-essential uses.

Immediate (Fawri) vs. Delayed (Tawsi') Obligation

There is a scholarly difference of opinion on whether the obligation of Hajj must be fulfilled immediately (in the very first year of capability) or whether it allows delay (tawsi').

View	Position
Immediate (Fawri):	Hajj must be performed the first available year; spending the māl elsewhere is impermissible.
Delayed (Tawsi') — Preferred (Mufta Bihi) Opinion:	Hajj may be deferred; the māl may be spent elsewhere. However, the obligation of Hajj remains binding. If the person loses capability later, the wujub (obligation) is not dropped — it remains due upon him. He will be sinful if he dies without having performed it.

Key principle: The Wujub of Hajj does not drop due to subsequent loss of wealth. If Hajj became obligatory in the season of capability, it remains obligatory even if the māl is later spent or lost.

Q&A from Students

Q: Many people — especially in India and Pakistan — delay Hajj because they say they need the money to marry off their daughters or meet other family responsibilities. Is there any Shari'i basis for this delay?

A (Teacher): The expenses of a daughter's marriage are not Shari'i necessities — they are customs and cultural obligations that people make binding upon themselves. Shari'ah has not mandated extravagant marriage expenditures. Therefore, Hajj cannot be delayed on this basis. Per the preferred opinion (tawsi'), the person will not be deemed sinful for delaying due to such reasons — but the obligation of Hajj remains binding on him. If he dies without performing it, he will be considered sinful in the sight of Allah. The better course is to perform Hajj as early as possible.

Closing / Next Class

Next topic: The Arkan (أَرْكَان) [pillars/integrals] of Hajj — specifically: 1. The Fard (obligatory) components 2. The Wajib (necessary) components

These will be covered with full details in the next class, insha'Allah.

Masail e Hajj — Class 6 Summary

DATE May 21, 2026

TOPIC Arkān of Hajj: Wuqūf Arafah — its obligation, place, timing, and related rulings

TEACHER Mufti Umar Aejaaz

Introduction

This class begins the study of the Arkān (أَرْكَان) [pillars] of Hajj — the mandatory actions without which Hajj is not performed at all. The two arkān are:

1. Wuqūf Arafah (وُقُوفُ عَرَفَةَ) — standing at the plain of Arafah.
2. Tawāf al-Ziyārah (طَوَافُ الزِّيَارَةِ) — details to follow in a future class.

This session focuses entirely on Wuqūf Arafah, covering six key points:

1. The dalīl (evidence) behind its obligation
2. The place where it is performed
3. The time in which it is performed
4. The duration of the stay
5. Rulings related to the wuqūf
6. What happens if someone misses the wuqūf

Point 1 — The Dalīl (Evidence) for the Farḍiyyah of Wuqūf Arafah

Allah obligated Hajj in the Quran in a mujmal (مُجْمَل) [general] manner — without specifying its details. The details were provided by the Prophet ﷺ through aḥādīth. He explained what the essence of Hajj is:

Ḥadīth 1

الْحَجُّ عَرَفَةُ

“Hajj is Arafah.”

(hadith as cited in class — confirm in hadith index)

The meaning is: the Hajj is [essentially] the standing at Arafah. The Prophet ﷺ based the completion of Hajj upon this single action, indicating that it is the farḍ [obligatory pillar] without which Hajj does not exist at all.

The Nature of “Completion” (Tamām) Here

A question arises: when the completion of something depends on an action, that action should be wājib, not farḍ — because a wājib is what completes an already-existing thing. The answer is that completion (tamām) is of two types:

1. Completion in the sense of existence (wujūd): The thing does not exist at all without the action.
2. Completion in the sense of perfection (kamāl): The thing exists but remains incomplete.

Here, the first meaning is intended. The ḥadīth means: whoever performs the wuqūf at Arafah, his Hajj comes into existence. Without it, the Hajj has no existence whatsoever. Since the Quranic āyah obligating Hajj is at the level of fard, and this ḥadīth is its tafsīr, the wuqūf too is established as fard — not merely wājib.

Ḥadīth 2 / Āyah of Quran

تُمْ أَفِيضُوا مِنْ حَيْثُ أَفَاضَ النَّاسُ

“Then return from where the people return from.”

Ref: Sūrah al-Baqarah (2:199)

Background

During the Jāhiliyyah period, the people of Makkah (the people of the Ḥaram) would not go to Arafah during Hajj. They would say: “We are the people of Allah’s Ḥaram; we will not leave its boundaries like others.” Since Arafah is located outside the boundary of the Ḥaram, they would remain within it and skip the wuqūf.

This āyah was revealed commanding them to return from where other people return from — i.e., from Arafah. The command to return from Arafah implicitly requires going there in the first place. Thus, indirectly, this is an order to perform the wuqūf.

Dalīl 3 — Ijmā‘ (Consensus)

There is ijmā‘ (consensus) among all the scholars and schools of thought that Wuqūf Arafah is fard. No difference of opinion exists on this point.

Point 2 — The Place of Wuqūf

The entire plain of Arafah is the place for the wuqūf, as stated by the Prophet ﷺ:

وَقَفْتُ هَاهُنَا وَعَرَفْتُ كُلَّهَا مَوْقِفٌ

“I stood here, and the whole of Arafah is a place of standing.”

(hadith as cited in class — confirm in hadith index)

The Prophet ﷺ mentioned the wuqūf in absolute terms without restricting it to any particular spot. Therefore, one may stand anywhere in the field of Arafah.

Exception: Baṭn ‘Uranah (بَطْنُ عُرْنَةَ)

The only exception is the Valley of ‘Uranah, a specific strip of land within the area. The Prophet ﷺ prohibited standing there for wuqūf and called it a “mawqif of Shayṭān” — because Shayṭān would love for people to stand there, as their wuqūf would not be valid. Apart from this valley, the entire field is permissible.

Point 3 — The Time of Wuqūf

The time for Wuqūf Arafah is fixed as follows:

- Beginning: After the zawāl (when the sun passes its zenith and Zuḥr time begins) on the 9th of Dhul Ḥijjah (Yawm al-ʿArafah).
- End: Before the Fajr time begins on the 10th of Dhul Ḥijjah (Yawm al-Naḥr).

This gives a window of less than twenty-four hours. Any stay at Arafah outside this window is not counted as wuqūf — similar to how a ṣalāh cannot be performed before its prescribed time.

Evidence for the Beginning

خُذُوا عَنِّي مَنَاسِكَكُمْ

“Learn from me your rites of Hajj.”

(hadith as cited in class — confirm in hadith index)

The Prophet ﷺ performed the wuqūf after the zawāl, and instructed the Ummah to learn their Hajj from his practice. This establishes the zawāl as the starting point.

Evidence for the End

مَنْ أَدْرَكَ عَرَفَةَ بَلِيلٍ فَقَدْ أَدْرَكَ الْحَجَّ ، وَمَنْ فَاتَهُ عَرَفَةُ بَلِيلٍ فَقَدْ فَاتَهُ الْحَجُّ

“Whoever reaches Arafah at night has attained the Hajj; and whoever misses Arafah at night has missed the Hajj.”

(hadith as cited in class — confirm in hadith index)

Difference of Opinion: Day vs. Night

Scholar	Position
Aḥnāf (Ḥanafī school) — Majority view	The time for wuqūf includes both day and night . One may perform it at any point after the zawāl on the 9th until Fajr of the 10th.
Imām Mālik	The actual time for wuqūf is only the night portion . If someone was present only during the daytime and left before night, their wuqūf is not valid .

Imām Mālik’s Dalīl: He relies on the ḥadīth: “Whoever reaches Arafah at night has attained the Hajj.” Since the ḥadīth restricts attainment to the night, Imām Mālik restricts the wuqūf to the night.

Ḥanafī Response:

مَنْ وَقَفَ بِعَرَفَةَ بَلِيلٍ أَوْ نَهَارٍ فَقَدْ تَمَّ حَجُّهُ

“Whoever stood at Arafah — whether by night or by day — his Hajj is complete.”

(hadith as cited in class — confirm in hadith index)

This explicitly includes the daytime as a valid period. Both day and night are options; neither is exclusive.

Additional Reasoning: Wuqūf Arafah is one of the actions of Hajj, and other actions of Hajj are not restricted to nighttime alone. By analogy, the wuqūf should likewise not be restricted to the night.

Responding to Imām Mālik’s Ḥadīth: The ḥadīth cited by Imām Mālik says “whoever reaches Arafah at night has attained the Hajj.” The Ḥanafī response: this ḥadīth affirms that the night is a valid time, but it is silent about the daytime — it neither validates nor rejects it. Silence cannot be used as evidence to negate the validity of the daytime wuqūf.

Point 4 — Case of Mistaken Dates

Case: Wuqūf Performed on the 10th (Thinking it was the 9th)

If the people counted the month of Dhul Qa’dah (the month before Dhul Ḥijjah) as thirty days, performed the wuqūf on what they believed was the 9th, but later witnesses testified that Dhul Qa’dah was only twenty-nine days — meaning the wuqūf was actually performed on the 10th of Dhul Ḥijjah:

Ruling: The wuqūf is valid. What is done is done. It cannot be invalidated because: - It affects a large number of people, not just one individual. - Their money and effort would go to waste. - It happened due to a genuine mistake, which is forgiven.

The dalīl is the ḥadīth:

صَوْمُكُمْ يَوْمَ تَصُومُونَ وَأَضْحَاكُمْ يَوْمَ تَضْحُونَ وَحَجُّكُمْ يَوْمَ تَحُجُّونَ

“Your fasting is the day you fast, your sacrifice is the day you sacrifice, and your Hajj is the day you perform it [according to your counting].”

(ḥadīth as cited in class — confirm in ḥadīth index)

Why the Testimony is Not Accepted to Invalidate

1. The testimony of those witnesses is a shahādah for nafi (testimony to negate), which is inherently weaker (badīlī). It seeks to invalidate the Hajj of the masses, and such negating testimony is not given precedence.
 2. Even if the witnesses are trustworthy, accepting such testimony would create ḥaraj (حَرَج) [undue hardship] for all the pilgrims. Such a mistake is a normal occurrence that cannot be avoided, so it is forgiven.

Case: Wuqūf Performed on the 8th (Thinking it was the 9th)

If the people counted the previous month as twenty-nine days and performed the wuqūf on what they thought was the 9th, but it later turned out to be only the 8th of Dhul Ḥijjah:

Ruling: The wuqūf is not valid. They must repeat it on the actual 9th, because there is still time and opportunity to perform it correctly. The necessity that would justify accepting a premature wuqūf does not exist here — the correct date is still ahead.

Key distinction: - Wuqūf on the 10th (after the time has passed) → valid, because there is no chance to repeat it. - Wuqūf on the 8th (before the time has arrived) → invalid, because the 9th is still to come and the correct wuqūf can still be performed.

Closing / Next Class

The remaining discussion points on Wuqūf Arafah — including the minimum duration of stay and what happens if someone misses the wuqūf entirely — will be covered in the next class, inshā'Allāh.

Masail e Hajj — Class 7 Summary

DATE May 22, 2026

TOPIC Wuqūf Arafah (continued) — witness testimony cases, duration of stay, departure rulings, missing the wuqūf, and days of Uḍḥiyah

TEACHER Mufti Umar Aejaaz

Introduction

This class continues the discussion of Wuqūf Arafah from Class 6, completing the remaining points:

1. Further cases of mistaken dates and witness testimony
2. The duration of stay at Arafah (farḍ minimum and wājib duration)
3. The classification of ḥadīth (Uṣūlī vs. Muḥaddithīn divisions)
4. Rulings on departing before sunset (ghurūb)
5. What happens if someone misses the wuqūf entirely
6. Bonus Q&A: The number of days of Uḍḥiyah (Qurbānī)

Continuation — Mistaken Dates: The Analogy of Qiblah

The case discussed in Class 6 — where the wuqūf was performed on the 10th due to a counting error — is compared to the case of ṣalāh and qiblah:

If a person does not know the exact direction of the qiblah, he is ordered to use his best judgement (ijtihād) and pray facing the direction he believes to be correct. If it later turns out he faced the wrong direction, his ṣalāh is still valid — because he practiced upon the Sharʿī dalīl available to him. Similarly, the people practiced upon the Sharʿī ruling (completing the month at thirty days when the moon was not sighted). Their action remains valid even after the error is discovered.

Witness Testimony — Detailed Scenarios

Scenario 1: Witnesses Appear After the Wuqūf is Complete

If the wuqūf has already been performed and everything is done, and witnesses appear one or two days later testifying that the moon was sighted on the 29th (meaning the wuqūf was actually on the 10th, not the 9th):

Ruling: Their testimony is not acted upon. What is done is done. The wuqūf was performed on the basis of the Sharʿī dalīl and cannot be invalidated retroactively.

Scenario 2: Witnesses Appear Before Zawāl on the Day of Wuqūf

If witnesses appear on the morning of what the people believe is the 9th — before the zawāl, before the wuqūf has begun — and testify that it is actually the 10th:

The ruling depends on whether the Imām (Amīr al-Ḥajj) has enough time to gather the people in Arafah:

Situation	Ruling
Enough time remains (e.g., testimony comes after Maghrib, leaving 12+ hours until Fajr)	The Imām must accept the testimony, make the announcement, and gather the people for the wuqūf. If they do not perform the wuqūf despite having time, their Hajj is not valid .
Not enough time (testimony comes too late to organize the gathering on short notice)	The Imām does not accept the testimony. The people proceed with their original counting and perform the wuqūf the next day after zawāl.

Note on historical context: In early times, delays in witness testimony were understandable because communication was difficult. In modern times, late testimony raises questions about the witnesses' authenticity, since information travels quickly and moon-sighting announcements are widely accessible.

Scenario 3: What About the Witnesses Themselves?

If the witnesses know the actual date but the Imām has declared differently, and the wuqūf is performed on what the witnesses know to be the 10th:

Ruling: The witnesses must follow the Imām's declaration, not their personal knowledge. Their wuqūf alongside everyone else is valid.

Rationale: The declaration of dates is in the authority of the Imām (Amīr al-Muslimīn). Everyone must follow one unified determination; individual knowledge does not override the collective ruling.

صَوْمُكُمْ يَوْمَ تَصُومُونَ وَحَجُّكُمْ يَوْمَ تَحُجُّونَ

"Your fasting is the day you fast, and your Hajj is the day you perform it [collectively]."

(hadith as cited in class — confirm in hadith index)

Scenario 4: Imām Rejects Testimony, but Some People Follow It

If two witnesses testify on the 29th of Dhul Qa'dah that they saw the moon, but the Imām rejects their testimony for a valid reason (e.g., the sky was clear and no one else saw it — suggesting something unreliable), and he completes the month at thirty days:

Some people ignore the Imām's ruling and follow the rejected testimony, performing the wuqūf one day early (on what is the 8th according to the Imām's counting, but the 9th according to the rejected testimony).

Ruling: Their wuqūf is not valid. Once the Imām has rejected the testimony, it carries no legal weight. The Imām's declaration is the authoritative ruling, not the testimony of individuals whose claim was officially dismissed.

Point 5 — Duration of Stay at Arafah

The duration of stay at Arafah has two levels:

The Farḍ (Minimum) Duration

The farḍ is fulfilled by any amount of stay — even a single second. The evidence is that the Prophet ﷺ mentioned the wuqūf in absolute terms without specifying a minimum duration:

...مَنْ وَقَفَ بِعَرَفَةَ

“Whoever stood at Arafah...”

Since no time limit is specified, even the briefest presence counts. The following conditions apply to the farḍ:

- The person may be in any state — standing, sitting, riding, walking, or even passing through.
- Even if the person is unconscious or asleep, the stay is counted.
- Niyyah (intention) is not required for the farḍ wuqūf. This differs from Ṭawāf, where niyyah is required because Ṭawāf takes place inside the Masjid (which one must enter with intention). Arafah is an open field — mere physical presence suffices.

The Wājib Duration

The wājib level requires staying from the zawāl on the 9th of Dhul Ḥijjah until the ghurūb (sunset). This means being present for some portion of the night as well — once Maghrib time begins, one has caught some part of the night.

Why is this wājib and not farḍ?

The obligation of this extended stay is established through Khabar Wāḥid (a ḥadīth narrated through a single chain), not through Dalīl Qaṭʿī (definitive evidence). In Ḥanafī uṣūl:

- Farḍ = obligation proven by dalīl qaṭʿī (definitive evidence: Quran, mutawātir ḥadīth, or mashhūr ḥadīth).
- Wājib = obligation proven by dalīl ḡannī (probable evidence: khabar wāḥid or ḡāhir of a text).

Since the extended stay is proven by khabar wāḥid, it is wājib, not farḍ.

Contrast with the Shāfiʿī School

In the Shāfiʿī school, there is no concept of wājib as a separate category between farḍ and sunnah. For them, an obligation is either farḍ or sunnah — regardless of whether it is proven by dalīl qaṭʿī or dalīl ḡannī. Since the long stay is not farḍ according to them, it falls to the level of sunnah.

Practical difference: - If someone misses a farḍ, the action does not count at all. - If someone misses a wājib (Ḥanafī), the action counts but is incomplete, and a penalty (dam) is required. - If someone misses a sunnah (Shāfiʿī), there is no penalty.

Excursus: Classification of Ḥadīth (Uṣūlī vs. Muḥaddithīn)

The teacher clarified the distinction between the two systems of ḥadīth classification, since the ruling above depends on it.

Division According to the Muḥaddithīn (Ḥadīth Scholars)

The Muḥaddithīn divide ḥadīth into two main categories:

1. Mutawātir: Narrated by such a large number of narrators in every era that it is inconceivable they all agreed on a lie — whether intentionally or unintentionally. This produces certainty (‘ilm al-yaqīn).
2. Āḥād: Everything that does not reach the level of mutawātir. This is further subdivided into:
 - Mashhūr: Narrated by at least three narrators in every era.
 - ‘Azīz: Narrated by at least two narrators in every era.
 - Gharīb: Narrated by a single narrator in some era.

Division According to the Uṣūliyyīn (Ḥanafī Legal Theorists)

The Uṣūliyyīn divide ḥadīth into three direct categories:

1. Mutawātir: A ḥadīth that became famous and widely narrated in the first era — the era of the Ṣaḥābah. A great number of Ṣaḥābah narrated it, producing certainty.
2. Mashhūr: A ḥadīth that was not narrated by a large number in the first era (among the Ṣaḥābah), but gained fame and wide narration in the second era — the era of the Ṭābi‘īn. The first two eras (Ṣaḥābah and Ṭābi‘īn) are the eras of legislation (tashrī‘), so fame achieved in either counts as strong evidence.
3. Khabar Wāḥid: A ḥadīth that gained fame only after the first two eras. Regardless of which later generation it became famous in, it remains khabar wāḥid because the era of tashrī‘ has passed. Its evidence is ẓannī (probable), not qaṭ‘ī (definitive).

Key implication: In Ḥanafī uṣūl, mutawātir and mashhūr ḥadīth produce dalīl qaṭ‘ī and can establish a farḍ. Khabar wāḥid produces dalīl ẓannī and can only establish a wājib.

Point 6 — Departing Arafah Before Sunset (Ghurūb)

Departing Before Ghurūb but Still Within Arafah

If a person starts leaving before sunset but is still physically within the boundaries of Arafah when ghurūb occurs, there is no penalty. He is still in the field.

Departing Before Ghurūb and Leaving Arafah Entirely

If a person crosses the boundary of Arafah before ghurūb:

School	Ruling
Ḥanafī	A dam (penalty — slaughtering a medium-sized animal) is wājib upon him, because he missed the wājib of staying until sunset.
Shāfi‘ī	No dam , because in their view the extended stay is sunnah, not wājib. Missing a sunnah carries no penalty.

How Can the Dam Be Dropped?

The dam can be dropped if the person returns to Arafah before ghurūb and is present when sunset occurs.

Opinion	Ruling
Majority opinion (preferred)	If he returns before ghurūb and is present at sunset, the dam is dropped — because he has compensated for what he missed.
Imām Zufar	Once the dam becomes wājib (by leaving), it cannot be dropped even if he returns. The wājib was established the moment he departed.

Note: This is analogous to the case of crossing the miqāt without iḥrām: if a person returns and puts on the iḥrām before crossing again, the dam is dropped according to the majority, but remains according to Imām Zufar.

Returning After Ghurūb

Situation	Ruling
He returns after ghurūb but the Imām (Amīr al-Ḥajj) is still in Arafah	Two narrations exist. The preferred (rājih) opinion: the dam is dropped , because the reason for the penalty was leaving before sunset, and he has now compensated by returning while the Imām is still present.
He returns after ghurūb and the Imām has already departed	The dam is established and cannot be dropped according to anyone. The ghurūb has passed and the opportunity is gone.

Missing the Wuqūf Entirely

If a person does not go to Arafah at all during the entire window (from zawāl on the 9th to Fajr of the 10th) — for example, he stayed in his hotel room or elsewhere:

Ruling: His Hajj is missed entirely. There is no remedy for this year. He must make qadā' (repeat the Hajj) the following year. The wuqūf is the farḍ pillar without which the Hajj has no existence.

Bonus Q&A: Days of Uḍḥiyah (Qurbānī) — Three or Four Days?

A student asked about the difference of opinion on the number of slaughtering days.

Ḥanafī Position (Majority): Three Days

The days of slaughtering (Ayyām al-Naḥr) are the 10th, 11th, and 12th of Dhul Ḥijjah — three days.

Dalīl 1 — Statement of Ibn ʿUmar (raḍiyallāhu ʿanhu)

Ibn ʿUmar explained the āyah:

وَاذْكُرُوا اللَّهَ فِي أَيَّامٍ مَّعْدُودَاتٍ

He said: “Yawm al-Naḥr (the 10th) and two days after it.” This gives 10, 11, 12 — three days.

Uṣūlī principle: When a Ṣaḥābī does tafsīr of an āyah, and the content is of the kind that cannot be derived through logic or personal reasoning (e.g., fixing specific numbers of days), it is treated as though it goes back to the Prophet ﷺ (marfū‘ ḥukman). This is because the only source for such information for a Ṣaḥābī would have been the Prophet ﷺ himself.

Dalīl 2 — Ḥadīth of the Prophet ﷺ

“Whoever among you slaughters, let nothing of its meat remain in his house after the morning of the third day.”

(ḥadīth as cited in class — confirm in ḥadīth index)

This prohibition (which was temporary, for a year of hardship) confirms that the Eid days are three: if a fourth day of slaughtering existed, there would still be fresh meat in the house, and the prohibition would not have made sense.

Dalīl 3 — Statements of Other Ṣaḥābah

‘Abdullāh ibn ‘Abbās and ‘Abdullāh ibn Mas‘ūd (raḍiyallāhu ‘anhum) also stated the same: the days of sacrifice are yawm al-naḥr and two days after it (10th, 11th, 12th).

Shāfi‘ī Position: Four Days

Imām al-Shāfi‘ī holds that the slaughtering days extend to the 13th of Dhul Ḥijjah, making it four days (10th–13th).

Shāfi‘ī Dalīl

A ḥadīth narrated through Abū Sa‘īd and others:

“All the days of Tashrīq are days of slaughtering.”

(ḥadīth as cited in class — chain has weakness, see below)

The days of Tashrīq are the 11th, 12th, and 13th. Combined with the 10th, this gives four days.

Additionally, aḥādīth stating these are “days of eating, drinking, and enjoyment” (which is why fasting on the 13th is not permitted) are used to argue that they must also be days of slaughtering.

Ḥanafī Response

The ḥadīth “all the days of Tashrīq are days of slaughtering” has a weakness in its chain — it contains a narrator who is considered ḍa‘īf (weak). Some scholars have even declared the ḥadīth mawḍū‘ (fabricated). This is why the majority of scholars did not use it as evidence.

The aḥādīth about “days of eating and drinking” are authentic but do not directly state that the 13th is a day of slaughtering. Imām al-Shāfi‘ī derived that point through inference (istidlāl), but the wording is not explicit. By contrast, the Ḥanafī evidences are clear and direct.

Summary:

Ḥanafī (Majority)	Shāfi‘ī
10th, 11th, 12th — three days	10th, 11th, 12th, 13th — four days
Based on clear, authentic narrations from multiple Ṣaḥābah	Based on a ḥadīth with a weak chain, supplemented by indirect inference from authentic aḥādīth

Closing / Next Class

This concludes the discussion on Wuqūf Arafah. The next topic — Ṭawāf al-Ziyārah (the second rukn of Hajj) — will be covered after a one-week break for the blessed days of Dhul Ḥijjah and Eid al-Aḍḥā. Classes resume on Monday, inshā’Allāh.

Special sessions on Qurbānī masā’il (selection of animal, method of slaughter, and related rulings) will be held over the weekend before Eid, inshā’Allāh.

TEACHER Mufti Umar Aejaaz

Introduction

This special weekend session covers practical rulings of Eid al-Adhā and Qurbānī (Uḍḥiyah) based on the short kitāb Ahkām e Eid al-Adhā wa Qurbānī by the late Muftī Muḥammad Shafī‘ Uthmānī (rahimahullāh), former Grand Muftī of Pakistan. The goal is to revise and refresh these masā’il before the blessed days begin.

Faḍā’il: Virtues of the First Ten Days of Dhul Ḥijjah

The first ten days of Dhul Ḥijjah are the best days of the entire Islamic calendar (after Ramaḍān). Allah has taken an oath in their name:

وَالْفَجْرِ وَلَيَالٍ عَشْرٍ

“By the dawn, and by the ten nights.”

Ref: Sūrah al-Fajr (89:1–2)

Whenever Allah takes an oath by something, it indicates its immense value.

Key virtues (from aḥādīth as cited in class): - One fast during these ten days equals the reward of one year of fasting. - The ‘ibādah of one night among these ten nights equals the reward of Laylat al-Qadr. - The 9th of Dhul Ḥijjah (Yawm al-‘Arafah) is the most special: fasting on it expiates sins of one year before and one year after. - The night between the 9th and 10th is the best of these nights.

Recommended: Not Cutting Nails and Hair

A person who intends to slaughter an animal should not cut their nails or hair during these ten days — resembling one in the state of iḥrām. This is a recommended practice (mustaḥabb), not obligatory.

Practical advice: - Trim nails and settle hair before the ten days begin. - If nails or hair become unsightly or cause difficulty (e.g., moustache interfering with eating), they may be cut — removing harm takes priority over gaining the benefit of a recommended act.

For those sending Qurbānī abroad: If the Qurbānī is performed in another country where Eid is one day later, the person should wait until the slaughter is done there before cutting nails/hair, to achieve this sunnah fully.

Takbīr al-Tashrīq

It is wājib to recite the Takbīr al-Tashrīq after every farḍ ṣalāh from the Fajr of the 9th of Dhul Ḥijjah to the ʿAṣr of the 13th of Dhul Ḥijjah — spanning five days and twenty-three prayers.

- Obligatory on both men and women, whether praying with jamāʿah or alone.
 - Men recite it audibly (not excessively loud — just audible).
 - Women recite it quietly.
 - It is recited once after each farḍ prayer.

Sunan of Eid Day

The following acts are mustahabb/masnūn on the day of Eid al-Aḍḥā:

1. Waking up early in the morning.
 2. Taking a bath (ghusl).
 3. Using miswāk.
 4. Wearing the best available clothing — not necessarily expensive; just the best one has.
 5. Applying perfume (ʿitr).
 6. Not eating before the Eid prayer — the first thing to eat should be the uḍḥiyah meat (the meat from one's sacrifice). This is the "hospitality from Allah's side." This is recommended, not obligatory.
 7. Reciting takbīr (Allāhu Akbar) while walking to the muṣallā — in a moderate voice, not silent and not excessively loud.

Eid Prayer — Key Rulings

The Eid prayer is wājib. It has a specific methodology with six additional takbīrāt:

- First rakʿah: Three extra takbīrāt before the qirāʾah.
- Second rakʿah: Three extra takbīrāt after the qirāʾah.
- In each takbīr, raise the hands and let them drop — except the third takbīr of the first rakʿah, because qirāʾah follows it (hands remain folded for qirāʾah).

Easy way to remember: 3 before (first rakʿah), 3 after (second rakʿah). Raise and drop hands each time, except the one before qirāʾah.

If the Imām misses the takbīrāt: No sajdah sahw is performed. The reason: it is a large gathering, and performing sajdah sahw could create confusion and fitnah among people who lack detailed knowledge of these rulings.

Khuṭbah after Eid prayer: It is masnūn to listen to the khuṭbah. One should not leave or get engaged in other activities.

Qurbānī (Uḍḥiyah) — The Slaughtering

Status and Virtues

Qurbānī is one of the greatest acts of ‘ibādah during these days. No deed is more beloved to Allah on these days than the slaughtering.

It is a remembrance of the Sunnah of Ibrāhīm (‘alayhi al-salām), who was commanded to sacrifice his son in a dream and proceeded to obey.

Virtues from ḥadīth (as cited in class): - In exchange of every hair of the animal, there is one reward. If the animal has wool, every strand of wool carries a reward. - The person is forgiven before the first drop of blood falls on the ground — provided the intention is sincere.

Ruling — Wājib or Sunnah?

Scholar	Ruling
Imām Abū Ḥanīfah (preferred Ḥanafī opinion)	Wājib — based on the Prophet ﷺ’s warning: “Whoever has the capability but did not slaughter, let him not come near our muṣallā.” Such a severe warning is only issued for missing a wājib.
Ṣāḥibayn, Imām al-Shāfi‘ī, Imām Mālik, Imām Aḥmad	Sunnah Mu’akkadah — strongly emphasized sunnah, but not wājib.

Upon Whom is Qurbānī Obligatory?

Basic Criteria (for all wājibāt)

The person must be: 1. Muslim 2. ‘Āqil (sane) 3. Bāligh (mature)

Specific Criteria for Qurbānī

In addition to the above: 4. Muqīm (resident, not a musāfir/traveler) 5. Ṣāḥib al-Niṣāb — owner of the niṣāb amount beyond basic needs (ḥājāt aṣliyyah)

The niṣāb is the value of 612+ grams of silver (the lower of the two niṣāb thresholds of gold and silver).

Two Key Differences from Zakāt Niṣāb

Point	Zakāt	Qurbānī / Ṣadaqat al-Fiṭr
Ḥawl (completion of year)	Required — niṣāb must be held for one full year	Not required — even if one acquires the niṣāb on the last day of Eid before sunset, Qurbānī becomes wājib
Exemptions for personal-use items	Broader — e.g., a backup car (not for trade) is not counted in niṣāb	Narrower — a backup car, extra house not in use, etc. are counted toward niṣāb

Example: If a person has two houses — one in use, one as backup — the value of the backup house is counted in the Qurbānī niṣāb (but not in Zakāt niṣāb).

Women and Qurbānī

Qurbānī is individually obligatory upon women who meet the niṣāb, even if their only asset is jewelry.

Niṣāb calculation for women: - If she has only gold (no silver, no cash, no other assets): the niṣāb of gold must be completed. - If she has a mixture (gold + some cash, or gold + silver): the niṣāb of silver (the lower threshold) is used — the combined value is assessed against 612g of silver.

Practical advice: Women should plan for Qurbānī throughout the year (e.g., saving a small amount daily), rather than waking up on Eid day wondering how to arrange funds. The husband commonly takes this burden upon himself, which is permissible — but it must be done with the wife's knowledge.

One Qurbānī per Person, Not per Family

A common misconception is that one Qurbānī suffices for the entire family. This is incorrect in the Ḥanafī school. Every individual who is Muslim, 'āqil, bāligh, muqīm, and ṣāḥib al-niṣāb must have their own Qurbānī performed.

Debt and Niṣāb

If a person is under debt, the debt amount is deducted from their total assets. If the remainder still meets the niṣāb, Qurbānī is wājib.

For long-term loans (home loans, etc.): Only the yearly installment due is deducted — not the entire loan amount. Otherwise, most wealthy business owners with large commercial loans would fall below the niṣāb, which defeats the purpose.

Example: A person has $10,000 in assets and a home loan with a $6,000 annual installment. Only $6,000 is deducted → $4,000 remaining → check if this meets the niṣāb.

No Qurbānī on Immature Children or Insane Persons

- There is no Qurbānī obligation on an immature child (not bāligh), regardless of their wealth.
- There is no Qurbānī obligation on a majnūn (insane person).
- However, it is recommended for a wealthy father to perform Qurbānī on behalf of his immature children.

Poor Person Who Buys an Animal

If a poor person (not ṣāhib al-niṣāb) purchases an animal with the intention of Qurbānī, the Qurbānī becomes wājib upon him on account of that purchase.

Days and Timing of Qurbānī

Three Days

The days of slaughtering are the 10th, 11th, and 12th of Dhul Ḥijjah — three days. The first day is the best.

- Slaughtering at night is makrūh (the Prophet ﷺ did not do it).
- The time technically begins after Fajr on the 10th (Shar‘ī daytime begins at Fajr, not sunrise).

In Cities and Large Villages (Where Eid Prayer is Performed)

Slaughtering must be done after the Eid prayer. If done before the prayer, the Qurbānī is not valid and must be repeated (the meat is still ḥalāl, but the wājib is not fulfilled).

If there are multiple masjids: Once the first masjid in the city completes its Eid prayer, slaughtering becomes permissible for the entire city.

In Small Villages (Where No Eid Prayer is Performed)

Slaughtering may be done immediately after Fajr — no need to wait for any Eid prayer.

Practical shortcut: A person in the city who wants to eat early can send his animal to a nearby village where no Eid prayer is performed. The animal can be slaughtered after Fajr there, then brought back to the city. The place of the animal is what determines the ruling, not the person’s location.

Sending Qurbānī Abroad

When Qurbānī is sent to another country (e.g., from the US to India/Pakistan), it must be performed on a common Eid day — a day that is an Eid day in both locations:

- The place of the animal and the place of the person must both be on a valid Eid day.
 - If Eid in the US is Wednesday and Eid in India is Thursday, the Qurbānī in India must be done on Thursday (not Wednesday), because Wednesday is not yet Eid in India.
 - It should not be done on a day that would be the 13th in the person’s location (as that is beyond the valid days).

Charity Cannot Replace Qurbānī

Some people argue that slaughtering is a “waste of money” and that the amount should be given as charity instead. This is incorrect. ‘Ibādāt are fixed by Allah’s command, not by human logic. No ṣadaqah can replace Qurbānī.

Additional benefits of Qurbānī (beyond the primary purpose of ‘ibādah and remembering Ibrāhīm ‘alayhi al-salām): - Boosts the local economy where mass slaughtering occurs. - Provides the best source of protein to poor people who otherwise cannot afford meat.

Animals for Qurbānī

Three categories of animals are valid:

Category	Animals	Shares
Small animals	Goat, sheep, ram, lamb	1 share (1 animal = 1 person)
Cattle	Cow, buffalo, ox	Up to 7 shares
Camel	Camel	Up to 7 shares

Note on buffalo: Some groups object that buffalo is not mentioned in ḥadīth regarding Eid slaughtering. The Ḥanafī scholars have addressed this — the teacher will share the relevant pages from Mawlānā Yūsuf Ludhyānwī’s work on this topic.

Wild/pet animals: Only domesticated livestock of the above types are valid. Wild animals — even if kept as pets — are not valid for Qurbānī.

Partnerships in Larger Animals — Critical Rulings

When sharing a cow, buffalo, or camel among up to seven partners:

All Partners Must Intend ‘Ibādah

Every partner’s share must be for an act of ‘ibādah performed through slaughtering — whether Qurbānī, Walīmah, ‘Aqīqah, or similar. If even one partner has no ‘ibādah intention (just wants meat), the Qurbānī of all partners is invalidated.

The Ḥarām Income Problem

This is a very sensitive and critical case:

- If one partner’s income is majority ḥarām, and he pays his share from ḥarām earnings, the Qurbānī is invalid for all partners.
- If there is no evidence against a partner’s income, the default assumption is that his earning is ḥalāl — benefit of the doubt applies.
- Assessment is based on ẓāhir (apparent situation) — what is observed and known about the person’s lifestyle and sources of income.
- You are not required to investigate deeply, but you must not knowingly partner with someone whose majority income is ḥarām.

Practical advice: Choose partners who are personally known to you and whose ḥalāl earning you are reasonably confident about. When using Qurbānī services where partners are assigned by the organization, the benefit of doubt applies — as long as you have no specific evidence of a problem.

Mixed income (e.g., gas station selling both ḥalāl items and ḥarām items like alcohol/lottery): The majority of their income is assessed. If the majority comes from ḥalāl sources (gas, food, etc.), benefit of doubt is given.

Q&A from Students

Q: In the US, many people do one Qurbānī per family even when multiple family members are ṣāḥib al-niṣāb. Is this valid in any madhhab?

A (Teacher): In the Ḥanafī school, this is clearly not valid — it is per person. The teacher will verify the position of other schools.

Q: Hair trimming — if the moustache grows over the lip during these ten days and interferes with eating, can it be trimmed?

A (Teacher): Yes. The prohibition of cutting hair/nails is only a recommendation. If it causes difficulty, removing the harm takes priority. The principle: “Removing harm is preferred over gaining benefit” (dar’ al-mafāsīd muqaddam ‘alā jalb al-manāfi’).

Closing / Next Class

The remaining masā’il of Qurbānī (method of slaughter, distribution of meat, skins, and other details) will be covered in tomorrow’s session (Sunday), inshā’Allāh. After that, classes will break for one week for the blessed days of Eid. Regular Masā’il al-Ḥajj classes resume the following Monday.

The teacher will share two reference books: 1. Aḥkām e Eid al-Aḍḥā wa Qurbānī by Muftī Muḥammad Shafī‘ ‘Uthmānī (already shared as PDF) 2. An Urdu reference by Mawlānā Yūsuf Ludhyānwī (to be shared)

Masail e Hajj — Class 9 Summary

DATE June 1, 2026

TOPIC Tawaf al-Ziyarah — obligation, evidence, rukn (hudur), and niyyah

TEACHER Mufti Umar Aejaaz

Introduction — topics in this series (overview)

This lesson begins a structured study of Tawaf al-Ziyarah (طواف الزيارة) [the farewell/obligatory tawaf of Hajj]. The teacher outlined the sequence of topics to be covered:

1. Dalīl (دليل) [evidence] behind the wujūb (وجوب) [obligation] of Tawaf al-Ziyarah.
2. Rukn (ركن) [essential pillar] of Tawaf al-Ziyarah — without it, the tawaf is not valid.
3. Shurūt (شروط) [conditions], wājibāt (واجبات) [necessary acts], and sunan of Tawaf al-Ziyarah (including ṭahārah (طهارة) [ritual purity] — detailed next class).
4. Wuqūf (وقوف) at the Maqām (مقام) [station] of Ibrāhīm during tawaf — method and ruling.
5. Raml (رمل) in the first three circuits — method and ruling.
6. Fixed days for this tawaf — what if someone cannot perform it within those days?

Today's class: points 1–2 in detail, and niyyah as a condition (part of point 3). Ṭahārah and timing of Tawaf al-Ziyarah — next class inshā'Allāh.

Types of tawaf (brief)

Tawaf	When	Wujūb
Tawaf al-Qudūm / al-Taḥiyyah (طواف القدوم)	On arrival in Makkah	Not wājib — sunnah / mustaḥabb
Tawaf al-Ziyarah (طواف الزيارة)	During the days of Eid (after the main rites)	Wājib on every Ḥajj
Tawaf al-Ifāḍah	Same as ziyārah in timing (discussed as the one wājib tawaf for all)	Wājib
Tawaf al-Wadāʿ (طواف الوداع)	When leaving Makkah	Wājib on those outside Makkah — not on Makkīs

Among all types, only the tawaf performed in the days of Eid (Tawaf al-Ziyarah / Ifāḍah) is compulsory on everyone performing Hajj — whether from Makkah, Ḥill, or abroad.

Part 1 — Evidence for the obligation of Tawaf al-Ziyarah

Evidence 1 — Qur'an: command to perform tawaf

وَلْيَطَّوَّفُوا بِالْبَيْتِ الْعَتِيقِ

“And let them circumambulate the Ancient House.”

Ref: Surah al-Ḥajj, 22:29.

- Whenever the Qur’an commands an act, it is farḍ.
- The command here is for ṭawāf around the Ka‘bah.
- Among types of ṭawāf, the ayah refers to Tawaf al-Ziyarah — the only type farḍ for every Ḥajj.

Evidence 2 — Qur’an: obligation of Hajj of the House

وَلِلّٰهِ عَلَى النَّاسِ حِجُّ الْبَيْتِ مَنِ اسْتَطَاعَ اِلَيْهِ سَبِيْلًا

“Hajj to the House is a duty owed to Allah upon mankind — for whoever is able to find a way to it.”

Ref: Surah Āl ‘Imrān, 3:97.

Linguistic dalīl: The word ḥajj (حج) comes from qaṣd (قصد) — to intend / set out for something. Here it means to intend the visit (ziyārah) of Baytullāh for the sake of Allah — which, in Sharī‘ah, is fulfilled by ṭawāf around it in the prescribed manner.

- The letter lām (ل) in Arabic can indicate obligation (wujūb).
- The visit (ziyārah) that is wājib on the Ḥajj is this ṭawāf — not merely standing near the House.

Supporting poetry (as cited in class): Classical usage shows ḥajj meaning ziyārah of a sacred place with the niyyah of ‘ibādah — applied here to Baytullāh through ṭawāf.

Evidence 3 — Ijmā‘ (إجماع) [consensus]

The whole ummah is agreed that this ṭawāf is wājib on everyone performing Hajj — Makkī, Ḥillī, or outsider — because the Qur’anic proofs are general (‘āmm).

Why it is called “Tawaf al-Ziyarah”

Ziyārah (زيارة) = the inner, essential part of the visit. This ṭawāf is the core of the visit to the House that Hajj requires — hence Ṭawāf al-Ziyārah.

Part 2 — Rukn of Tawaf al-Ziyarah: hudur (presence around the Ka‘bah)

What is the rukn?

The rukṇ (ركن) [essential pillar] is ḥuḍūr (حضور) — being present / going around the Ka‘bah.

- Not walking itself.
- Any means of presence counts for the rukṇ: walking, being carried, wheelchair, crowd pushing you while your body moves with the mass, etc.

If he is around the Ka‘bah...	Rukn complete?
Walking himself	Yes
Carried on shoulders / wheelchair while unable to walk	Yes — walking not wājib on him
Carried while able to walk but chose not to	Rukn yes — but missed wājib → dam (دم) [penalty sacrifice]
Riding / carried in crowd without feet on ground, though able	Rukn yes — dam for missing wājib of walking

Farḍ vs wājib – critical distinction

	Rukn (farḍ)	Wājib
If missed	Ṭawāf invalid – no compensation fixes it	Ṭawāf valid – dam (average goat/sheep) compensates
Example	No presence around Ka'bah at all	Capable but did not walk; rode without need

Wājib here: To perform ṭawāf by oneself on foot when able (qādir).

Carrier and carried – both complete rukn?

Yes (Hanafi teaching in class). Both the hāmīl (حامل) [carrier] and maḥmūl (محمول) [carried] complete the rukn of ḥuḍūr for each person.

- Difference: One performs presence through his own action; the other through being there while another moves – but ḥuḍūr is fulfilled for both.

Objection: One person's walking – one action – how enough for two?

Answer 1: The rukn is not walking; it is presence. Two presences = two fulfillments of rukn.

Answer 2: Sharī'ah sometimes accepts one action for two – e.g. a father trading on behalf of his immature child and himself with one transaction.

Running without niyyah of ṭawāf

If someone circles the Ka'bah without niyyah of ṭawāf (e.g. chasing someone, fleeing) – rukn is not enough for valid Tawaf al-Ziyarah (niyyah discussed below).

Part 3 – Shart: Niyyah (intention)

General rule

Niyyah is a shart (شرط) [condition] for valid Tawaf al-Ziyarah – unlike Wuquf Arafah, where presence without intention still fulfills the rukn.

	Wuquf Arafah	Tawaf al-Ziyarah
Niyyah	Not required for rukn	Required (absolute niyyah)
Without senses / niyyah	Can still count	Does not count

Absolute niyyah is enough

- Specific niyyah (“this is Tawaf al-Ziyarah”) is not required when Sharī'ah has already specified the act – like Ramadan fast: general intention to fast suffices in Ramaḍān.
- If he goes to make ṭawāf in the days fixed for Tawaf al-Ziyarah with general niyyah of ṭawāf, it is valid.

Why niyyah of ihrām does not substitute

	Ihrām	Tawaf al-Ziyarah
Purpose	Impose restrictions	Lift remaining restrictions (esp. marital relations after slaughter)
Relationship	Opposite aims	Niyyah of one cannot work for the other

Analogy from class: Salām ends ṣalāh — it must be with intention to end; mere head movement is not enough. Similarly, ṭawāf al-ziyārah undoes what iḥrām established — it needs its own niyyah.

- After nahr (ذبح) [sacrifice] on Eid, most iḥrām restrictions are lifted — one remains until this ṭawāf is done.
- Niyyah at iḥrām was for restriction, not for this tahlīl (تحليل) [becoming lawful again].

When absolute niyyah counts as the specified tawaf

Situation	Ruling
Ṭawāf in time Shari‘ah fixed for that type	Counts as that type even without specific label
Tawaf al-Qudūm on arrival before Ḥajj days	Absolute niyyah → counts as qudūm , not ziyārah
Qirān / ‘Umrah — first ṭawāf after iḥrām for ‘Umrah	Shari‘ah assigns it → counts as ‘Umrah ṭawāf even if he only thought “general ṭawāf”
Specific niyyah for nafl ṭawāf in time of wājib	Shari‘ah’s specification overrides → counts as wājib (like nafl fast in Ramaḍān counting as fard)

Historical example (as taught): Early Muslims after slaughter and raml went for ṭawāf without naming the type — absolute niyyah sufficed because Eid days were already fixed for Tawaf al-Ziyarah.

Part 4 — Ṭahārah (preview — next class)

- Hanafi standard (mentioned): Qur’anic command for ṭawāf is absolute; if khbar (خبر) [hadith report] adds a shart, it is treated as wājib (maximal), not always as rukṇ — method of reconciling Qur’an and ḥadīth.
- Imam Shāfi‘ī: Ṭahārah is shart for ṭawāf in a stricter sense.
- Details: next class, same time inshā’Allāh.

Q&A

Q: After Wuqūf, Muzdalifah, Mina — rami on 10th–12th — on which day can I do Tawaf al-Ziyarah? Must it be 13th?

A: After completing nahr, ḥalq (حلق) [shaving], and rami (as due), you may perform Tawaf al-Ziyarah on any of the Eid days (10th, 11th, 12th — and details of 13th and exact windows come in the timing lesson). You do not have to wait until the 13th. Exact time periods — next class.

Closing

- Covered: obligation of Tawaf al-Ziyarah (Qur'an, language, ijmā'); rukṇ = ḥuḍūr; wājib = walking if able; dam if wājib missed; niyyah required (absolute suffices); iḥrām niyyah does not substitute.
- Next class: Ṭahārah for ṭawāf, and fixed times for Tawaf al-Ziyarah — same time inshā'Allāh.

TOPIC Ṭahārah, Satr al-ʿAwrah, and Wājibāt of Tawaf al-Ziyarah

TEACHER Mufti Umar Aejaaz

Introduction

This lesson continues from Class 9’s study of Tawaf al-Ziyarah (طواف الزيارة). Having established the obligation, rukṇ (ḥuḍūr), and niyyah requirement, the teacher now examines the conditions (shurūṭ) and wājibāt (واجبات) [necessary acts] of ṭawāf — in particular ṭahārah (طهارة) [ritual purity], satr al-ʿawrah (ستر العورة) [covering the private area], najāsah (نجاسة) [external impurity], muwālāt (مواصلة) [continuity], muḥādhāt (محاذاة) [proximity of a woman in prayer], and the wājibāt of walking, starting from Ḥajar al-Aswad (الحجر الأسود), and circling from the right side. The class also includes a foundational discussion on the classification of ḥadīth reports (khabar) and their implications for fiqh rulings.

Part 1 — Ṭahārah (ritual purity) in Tawaf al-Ziyarah

The core dispute: Farḍ or Wājib?

Position	Ṭahārah status	If ṭawāf done without ṭahārah
Imam al-Shāfiʿī	Farḍ (شرط جواز) — ṭawāf invalid without it	Must be repeated entirely no compensation suffices
Ḥanafī school	Wājib	Compensation possible: repeat if still in Makkah, or dam (دم) [penalty sacrifice] if returned home

Dalīl of Imam al-Shāfiʿī

الطَّوَافُ بِالْبَيْتِ صَلَاةٌ

“Ṭawāf of the House is (like) ṣalāh.”

Ref: Hadith — as cited in class (narrated from Ibn ʿAbbās رضي الله عنه; reported in al-Tirmidhī, al-Nasāʾī, and others — verify exact numbering).

Imam al-Shāfiʿī’s reasoning: The Prophet ﷺ equated ṭawāf with ṣalāh absolutely. Since ṭahārah is a shart of ṣalāh (ṣalāh is invalid without it), ṭahārah must equally be a shart of ṭawāf — making it farḍ.

Ḥanafī response — the Tashbīh (resemblance) argument

The Ḥanafī position rests on two pillars:

Pillar 1 — The Qur’anic command is absolute (muṭlaq):

وَلْيَطَّوَّفُوا بِالْبَيْتِ الْعَتِيقِ

“And let them circumambulate the Ancient House.”

Ref: Surah al-Ḥajj, 22:29.

- The Qur’an commands ṭawāf absolutely — with no mention of ṭahārah.
- Any addition (like ṭahārah as a condition) that comes from ḥadīth cannot raise the ruling to farḍ it can maximally establish wujūb.
- This is because the ḥadīth in question is a ḵabar wāḥid (خبر واحد) [solitary report], which — in Ḥanafī uṣūl — cannot override or add to the qaṭ‘ī (definitive) Qur’anic text at the level of farḍiyyah.

Pillar 2 — Tashbīh does not demand complete similarity:

The word “ṣalāh” in the ḥadīth is a tashbīh (تشبيه) [simile/resemblance], not an equation of identity. When something is compared to another:

- Similarity is required in some aspects, not all.
- Example from the Qur’an: The wives of the Prophet ﷺ are called “mothers of the believers” — but this does not mean they are biological mothers in every respect (e.g. inheritance does not apply).
- Application: Ṭawāf is like ṣalāh in that some kind of obligation attaches — but the degree of obligation differs:
 - In ṣalāh: ṭahārah is a shart (farḍ) — ṣalāh is invalid without it.
 - In ṭawāf: ṭahārah is wājib — ṭawāf is valid but defective without it.

Conclusion: The Ḥanafī school practises upon both the āyah and the ḥadīth — the Qur’an keeps ṭawāf absolute (no farḍ status for ṭahārah), and the ḥadīth raises ṭahārah to the level of wājib.

Compensation for missing ṭahārah

Case 1 — Without wuḍū (minor impurity)

Situation	Ruling
Still in Makkah, can repeat	Must repeat the ṭawāf with wuḍū — this is the complete compensation
Repeated within Ayyām al-Naḥr (10th, 11th, 12th Dhū al-Ḥijjah)	No further penalty — he fulfilled it within the fixed time
Repeated after Ayyām al-Naḥr	Preferred opinion: must pay dam (penalty sacrifice) for missing the fixed time
Returned home, cannot repeat	Dam — slaughter of a goat (شاة)

Case 2 — In state of janābah (major impurity)

Situation	Ruling
Still in Makkah	Must repeat with ṭahārah (ghusl)
Returned home	Badanah (بدنة) — slaughter of a large animal (camel, cow, or buffalo)

Why is the compensation greater for janābah?

- The defect is greater — janābah is a more severe state of impurity than the absence of wuḍū.

- Greater defect → greater compensation.
- Without wuḍū = goat (شاة); without ghusl from janābah = badanah (بدنة).

Does the defective ṭawāf lift iḥrām restrictions?

Yes. According to the Ḥanafī school, because the ṭawāf is valid (though defective), it does lift the remaining iḥrām restrictions — including the restriction on physical/marital relations.

Scenario	Penalty?
Made ṭawāf without wuḍū / in janābah , then had physical relations after this ṭawāf	No additional penalty — the ṭawāf, though defective, lifted the restrictions
Had physical relations before Tawaf al-Ziyarah but after Wuqūf ‘Arafah	Badanah is wājib — the second farḍ (ṭawāf) was not yet performed

Two cases where badanah is wājib in Hajj

1. Performing Tawaf al-Ziyarah in the state of janābah — and returning home without repeating it.
2. Physical relations after Wuqūf ‘Arafah but before Tawaf al-Ziyarah — because the second farḍ has not yet been completed, and the full iḥrām restriction on relations is still in force.

Contrast: If the person has performed the ṭawāf (even defectively) and has done ḥalq/qaṣr and naḥr, but only ḥalq was missing before the physical act, then the violation is lesser — only a shāt (goat) is required, because the remaining obligation (ḥalq) is lighter.

Part 2 — Najāsah (external impurity) on body or clothing

Ruling: Sunnah (to purify), not Farḍ or Wājib

- Purifying the body and clothing from external najāsah (e.g. impurity on clothes) is sunnah for ṭawāf.
- If someone performs ṭawāf with najāsah on his body or clothing: no compensation (dam) is required.

Why no compensation?

- The prohibition of external najāsah relates to the masjid (i.e. the Masjid al-Ḥarām), not to the ṭawāf itself.
- Since the defect is not in the act of ṭawāf but in the context of being in the masjid, no defect appears in the ṭawāf — hence no dam.

Part 3 — Satr al-‘Awrah (covering the private area)

The dispute

Position	Status of satr al-‘awrah in ṭawāf
Imam al-Shāfi‘ī	Farḍ (shart jawāz) — ṭawāf invalid without it

Dalīl of Imam al-Shāfi‘ī

Same ḥadīth: “Ṭawāf of the House is (like) ṣalāh” — covering the ‘awrah is farḍ in ṣalāh, so it should be farḍ in ṭawāf.

Ḥanafī response

Same framework as ṭahārah:

1. The Qur’anic command for ṭawāf is absolute — no mention of satr al-‘awrah.
2. The addition from ḥadīth (khabar wāḥid) can establish wujūb, not farḍiyyah.
3. The tashbīh does not require similarity in all respects.

Compensation

Situation	Ruling
Still in Makkah	Repeat the ṭawāf with ‘awrah properly covered
Returned home	Dam — slaughter required

Satr al-‘Awrah vs. external Najāsah — the critical difference

	Satr al-‘Awrah	Najāsah on clothing
Relates to	The ṭawāf itself — the Prophet ﷺ specifically prohibited ṭawāf with exposed body	The masjid — general rule about entering the mosque
Defect in ṭawāf?	Yes — the ṭawāf is defective	No — the ṭawāf itself is not affected
Compensation	Dam required if not repeated	No dam — only sunnah was missed

Part 4 — Muḥādhāt (woman standing parallel to a man)

In ṣalāh

Muḥādhāt (محاذاة) — when a woman stands directly parallel/beside a man, performing the same ṣalāh behind the same imam — it breaks the man’s ṣalāh (not the woman’s).

Key conditions for muḥādhāt to break ṣalāh:

1. They must be performing the same ṣalāh — i.e. behind the same imam, joined in the same congregation.
2. The imam must have made intention to lead the woman.
3. She stands completely parallel to the man (beside him, not behind).

When muḥādhāt does NOT break ṣalāh:

- They are performing separate ṣalāhs — even if both are praying Ṣuḥr, if they are not behind the same imam, there is no muḥādhāt issue.
- In Ṣalāt al-Janāzah — because it is not ṣalāh in the conventional sense (no rukū‘ and sujūd).
- Whose ṣalāh breaks? The man’s, not the woman’s — because it is the man’s duty to be ahead of the women, so the deficiency is attributed to him.

In ṭawāf

Muḥādhāt does NOT invalidate ṭawāf.

Reason: The ruling of muḥādhāt breaking ṣalāh is based on a ḥadīth — it is against qiyās (analogy) and therefore restricted to its specific context (ṣalāh). It cannot be extended to ṭawāf by analogy, because:

- Rulings that go against qiyās are restricted to their place.
- In ṭawāf, there is no ishtirāk (اشتراك) [joining/combining] — every person performs their own ṭawāf individually; no one leads another in ṭawāf.

Part 5 — Muwālāt (continuity between rounds)

Ruling: NOT required

Muwālāt (موالاة) — performing all seven rounds of ṭawāf consecutively without any break — is not a condition or wājib.

- A person may take breaks during ṭawāf and resume from where he left off.
- There is no need to start over from the beginning.

Dalīl

رُوي أَنَّ النَّبِيَّ ﷺ اسْتَسْقَى فِي الطُّوَافِ فَاتَى بِمَاءٍ فَشَرِبَ

“It is reported that the Prophet ﷺ asked for water during ṭawāf, and water was brought to him, and he drank.”

Ref: Hadith — narrated regarding the Prophet ﷺ at the Siqāyah (the water station) (as cited in class — confirm in hadith index).

- The Prophet ﷺ took a break to drink water during ṭawāf, demonstrating that muwālāt is not required.
- This confirms that minor or even significant breaks do not invalidate the ṭawāf; the pilgrim simply continues from where he stopped.

Part 6 — Wājibāt of Tawaf al-Ziyarah

Summary of what has been covered so far

Requirement	Status
Ḥuḍūr (presence around Ka’bah)	Rukn (farḍ) — ṭawāf invalid without it
Niyyah	Shart (condition) — absolute niyyah suffices
Ṭahārah	Wājib (Ḥanafī) / Farḍ (Shāfi‘ī)
Satr al-‘Awrah	Wājib (Ḥanafī) / Farḍ (Shāfi‘ī)
Najāsah removal	Sunnah only
Muwālāt	Not required
Muḥādhāt	Does not affect ṭawāf

Wājib 1 — Walking on the feet (المشي على الأقدام)

Ruling (Ḥanafī): It is wājib to perform ṭawāf walking on one's feet — using a wheelchair, riding an animal, or being carried is not permissible unless there is a genuine 'udhr (عذر) [excuse/disability].

Ruling (Shāfi'ī): Walking on the feet is not wājib — riding or using a wheelchair is permissible without any penalty.

Dalīl (Ḥanafī)

The linguistic meaning of ṭawāf (طواف) and specifically the Qur'anic command:

وَلْيَطَّوَّفُوا بِالْبَيْتِ الْعَتِيقِ

Ref: Surah al-Ḥajj, 22:29.

- The Arabic verb for ṭawāf linguistically implies circling while walking. A person who rides is not called ṭā'if (طائف) in the linguistic sense.
- Therefore, walking on feet is inherent to the meaning of ṭawāf itself.

Dalīl (Shāfi'ī) — the Prophet's practice

The Prophet ﷺ performed ṭawāf while riding upon his animal during the Farewell Hajj.

Ḥanafī explanation of the Prophet's riding

Two explanations were given:

1. He was older and heavier — as explained by Ibn 'Abbās رضي الله عنه — so this was a concession due to 'udhr.
2. For ta'lim (تعليم) [teaching] — he rode so the people could see him above the crowd and learn the actions and sequence of ṭawāf from him.

Compensation for missing this wājib

Situation	Ruling
Still in Makkah and able	Repeat the ṭawāf walking
Returned home	Dam — slaughter of an average goat

Special case: Crawling (الحنو)

- Crawling (like a baby) is not considered walking on the feet.
- If a person is capable of walking but crawls, he is missing the wājib → same ruling as riding.
- If he crawls because of 'udhr → concession applies, no penalty.

Nadhr (vow) to perform ṭawāf while crawling

If someone vowed: "I will perform ṭawāf for Allāh while crawling":

- The ṭawāf itself becomes wājib because of the nadhr.
- The condition of crawling is invalid — it is an improper condition and is dropped.
- He must perform the ṭawāf walking normally on his feet.
- Preferred opinion (rājih): The crawling condition is voided, and the ṭawāf must be performed properly.
- Other opinion: Crawling could suffice — based on the analogy that if someone vows ṣalāh on unlawfully seized land, the ṣalāh is still valid despite the improper circumstance. This opinion is not the preferred one.

Being carried by another person

If a person is carried (on shoulders, wheelchair, etc.) while capable of walking: he is missing the wājib. Same ruling — repeat if in Makkah; dam (goat) if returned home.

Wājib 2 — Starting from Ḥajar al-Aswad (الابتداء من الحجر الأسود)

Ruling (Ḥanafī preferred opinion): Sunnah — not farḍ or wājib.

- The Prophet ﷺ started his ṭawāf from Ḥajar al-Aswad — this is the established sunnah.
- If someone starts from another point, his ṭawāf is valid but he earns the karāhah (makrūh) of not following the sunnah.

Second opinion (within Ḥanafī school, also the Shāfi‘ī position): The round that occurs before reaching Ḥajar al-Aswad is not counted. The ṭawāf effectively begins only when the pilgrim reaches Ḥajar al-Aswad, and any circling before that point does not count toward the seven rounds. This is not the preferred (rājih) Ḥanafī opinion.

Historical background

When Ibrāhīm عليه السلام completed the construction of the Ka’bah, he asked his son Ismā‘īl عليه السلام to bring him a stone to mark the starting point of ṭawāf. Ismā‘īl brought stones, but eventually Jibrīl عليه السلام brought the stone from Jannah — the Ḥajar al-Aswad. Ibrāhīm said: “I have no further need — Allāh has fulfilled it.” Both parties use this narration — one takes it as proof of sunnah, the other as proof of obligation.

Wājib 3 — Circling from the right side (الطواف من جانب اليمين)

Ruling (Ḥanafī): Wājib — the pilgrim must circle the Ka’bah keeping it to his left (i.e. moving counter-clockwise, starting to the right of Ḥajar al-Aswad).

Ruling (Shāfi‘ī): Farḍ (shart) — ṭawāf is invalid if done in the wrong direction.

Position	If ṭawāf done in wrong direction
Ḥanafī	Valid but defective — wājib missed → repeat if in Makkah, dam if returned home
Shāfi‘ī	Invalid — must be repeated entirely

Reason for the difference: The evidence for the direction of ṭawāf comes from ḥadīth — and the classification of that ḥadīth determines the ruling (see Part 7 below).

Part 7 — Excursus: Classification of Khabar (Ḥadīth reports)

The teacher explained the foundational Ḥanafī uṣūl principle behind the recurring difference with the Shāfi‘ī school regarding farḍ vs wājib.

Two parameters of ḥadīth authentication

1. How the ḥadīth reached us — the number and era of narrators.
2. What the ḥadīth refers to — its content and meaning.

Three categories of khabar

Category	Definition	Era of fame	Ruling capacity
Khabar Mutawātir (خبر متواتر)	Narrated by a large number of narrators in every era , starting from the era of the Ṣaḥābah	Ṣaḥābah era (1st generation)	Can prove farḍiyyah (فرضية)
Khabar Mashhūr (خبر مشهور)	Narrated by a large number but the fame reached that level in the era of the Tābi‘īn (2nd generation)	Tābi‘īn era (2nd generation)	Can prove farḍiyyah
Khabar Wāḥid (خبر واحد)	Narrated by one or two individuals in the first two eras; gained fame after the eras of Ṣaḥābah and Tābi‘īn	After 2nd generation	Can prove wujūb only – not farḍiyyah

Why this matters

- Ṣaḥābah are all reliable in matters of narration — a ḥadīth with mass transmission from them leaves no room for doubt.
- Tābi‘īn are the people of khayr (خير) as the Prophet ﷺ himself testified — mass narration from them also provides strong certainty.
- After these two eras, most ḥadīths gained their fame — they are ṣaḥīḥ if narrators are reliable, but carry a degree of doubt in the transmission chain that prevents them from establishing farḍ.

Practical impact

School	Khabar Wāḥid with a command	Result
Shāfi‘ī	Can prove farḍ	No separate concept of wājib needed
Ḥanafī	Can prove wujūb only	Farḍ requires Qur’an / Mutawātir / Mashhūr evidence

This is the root cause of the recurring Ḥanafī-Shāfi‘ī differences on ṭahārah, satr al-‘awrah, direction of ṭawāf, and other conditions — wherever the evidence is a khabar wāḥid, the Ḥanafī school classifies the ruling as wājib while the Shāfi‘ī school classifies it as farḍ.

The Shāfi‘ī school has no concept of wājib (as a category between farḍ and sunnah) because they do not differentiate between the three types of khabar in terms of what they can prove.

Practical difference between farḍ and wājib:

- Both must be practised — no difference in obligation to act.
- The difference appears when the requirement is missed:
 - Missing farḍ → the action is completely invalid.
 - Missing wājib → the action is valid but defective — compensation is possible.

Part 8 — Rulings of Nafl Tawaf

All the above conditions and wājibāt apply to nafl ṭawāf as well — once a nafl ṭawāf is started, it becomes wājib to complete it properly.

Key difference in penalty: Because nafl ṭawāf is not wājib by default (it becomes wājib only after commencement), the penalty for missing a wājib within it is lesser:

Ṭawāf type	Penalty for missing a wājib (when returned home)
Fard / wājib ṭawāf (e.g. Tawaf al-Ziyarah)	Dam — slaughter of a goat
Nafl ṭawāf	Ṣadaqah — charity (equivalent to Ṣadaqat al-Fiṭr)

Part 9 — Three Types of Tawaf in Hajj (overview)

Tawaf	When	Status	For whom
Tawaf al-Qudūm (طواف القدوم) / al-Taḥiyyah	On arrival in Makkah, before Hajj rites begin	Sunnah — a “check-in” ṭawāf	All pilgrims
Tawaf al-Ziyarah (طواف الزيارة) / al-Ifāḍah	During the days of Eid , after main rites (naḥr, ḥalq, rami)	Fard — a rukṇ of Hajj	All pilgrims
Tawaf al-Ṣadr (طواف الصدر) / al-Wadāʿ	When leaving Makkah to return home	Wājib (Ḥanafī) / Sunnah (Shāfiʿī)	Outsiders only — not wājib on residents of Makkah

The teacher noted that the detailed rulings for when Tawaf al-Ziyarah or Tawaf al-Ṣadr are missed will be covered in upcoming classes.

Q&A

Q: People sometimes miss Tawaf al-Ziyarah because their flights are early and they didn’t get a chance. What is the ruling?

A: Tawaf al-Ziyarah is a rukṇ (fard) of Hajj. The detailed ruling of what happens when it is missed — and the time period within which it must be performed — will be discussed in a coming lesson. However, the teacher noted:

- Tawaf al-Ziyarah is a part of Hajj itself — it is the second fard (after Wuqūf ‘Arafah).
- Tawaf al-Ṣadr is not a part of Hajj — it is a separate wājib for outsiders when departing.
- The rulings for missing each are different and will be addressed in the next class inshā’Allāh.

Closing

- Covered: Ṭahārah (Ḥanafī vs Shāfi‘ī — wājib vs farḍ; tashbīh argument; compensation framework); satr al-‘awrah (wājib); external najāsah (sunnah only — no dam); muḥādhāt (does not affect ṭawāf); muwālāt (not required); wājibāt of ṭawāf (walking on feet, starting from Ḥajar al-Aswad, circling from the right); khabar mutawātir / mashhūr / wāḥid framework; nafl ṭawāf rulings; three types of ṭawāf overview.
- Next class: Ruling when Tawaf al-Ziyarah and Tawaf al-Ṣadr are missed starting from the right side (continued); same time inshā’Allāh.

DATE May 24, 2026

TOPIC Qualities of a good wife, marriage as half of Īmān, simplicity in Nikāḥ, and looking at the prospective spouse

TEACHER Mufti Umar Aejaaz

Introduction

This class covers selected aḥādīth from Mishkāt al-Maṣābīḥ, Kitāb al-Nikāḥ (Book of Marriage). The discussion includes the qualities of a righteous wife, the spiritual significance of marriage in Islam, the principle of simplicity in nikāḥ, and the permissibility of looking at a prospective spouse before proposing.

Ḥadīth 1: Four Qualities of a Good Wife

A good wife is summarized in four qualities:

1. Muṭī‘ah (obedient) — she is obedient to her husband in matters that do not contradict the Sharī‘ah.
2. Pleasing to look at — when her husband looks at her, she is pleasing to him. This encompasses both outward beauty (physical appearance) and inner beauty (beauty of character).
3. Obeys his instructions — when her husband directs her regarding household or other permissible matters, she complies.
4. Protects her chastity in his absence — she guards herself, her honor, and his household when he is not present.

The Path to Jannah for a Woman

If a woman fulfills her obligations towards Allah (prays five times, etc.) and lives such a life that her husband is pleased with her, then according to the ḥadīth, all eight doors of Jannah are opened for her, and she may enter through whichever door she wishes.

Shaykh’s commentary: For a woman, entry into Jannah requires two things — pleasing Allah and pleasing her husband. For a man, the path involves additional responsibilities: earning a livelihood, da‘wah, amr bil ma‘rūf wa nahy ‘an al-munkar, jihād, and striving outside the home.

Note on Physical Beauty

Islam does not sideline the dimension of physical beauty. It is important for a healthy marriage. A woman may attend to her appearance with the right intention (for the sake of her husband), and it becomes rewarding for her.

Ḥadīth 2: Marriage is Half of Dīn

“When a servant marries, he has completed half of his religion. Now let him fear Allah in the remaining half.”

Why is Nikāḥ “Half of Īmān”?

A person has two categories of obligations:

1. Ḥuqūq Allāh (rights of Allah) — worship, ṣalāh, ṣawm, etc.
2. Ḥuqūq al-‘Ibād (rights of people) — responsibilities towards others.

The relationship of nikāḥ is the most delicate and sensitive of all human relationships. The Prophet ﷺ said:

“The best of you are those who are best towards their wives.”

If a person fulfills the rights of the marital relationship properly, it is expected that their other relationships will also be healthy. Thus, nikāḥ effectively represents the ḥuqūq al-‘ibād half of dīn.

Before marriage: No matter how righteous a person is, they are fulfilling at best 50% of their dīn.

After marriage: The other half becomes available. Even the reward of ṣalāh increases — it is mentioned that ṣalāh is multiplied by 27 times once a person is married.

Comparison with Other Religious Traditions

Tradition	Women’s Spirituality	View on Marriage
Islam	Complete parity — a woman can be a waliyyah of Allah. Equal access to Jannat al-Firdaws.	Marriage is required to complete Īmān. A spiritual asset, not a hindrance.
Catholicism	Only men can attain highest spiritual ranks (pope, bishop, cardinal).	Celibacy required for highest spirituality. Women seen as obstacles.
Hinduism	Only men can attain highest spiritual rank (yogi, Brahman).	Marriage is a hindrance to spiritual development.
Buddhism	Nirvāṇa reserved for men. Women cannot attain it.	Even accidental touch of a woman “defiles” a man spiritually.

Key point: Islam gives complete religious equality to men and women in both dunyawī spirituality (closeness to Allah) and ukhrawī spirituality (access to Jannat al-Firdaws). And unlike other traditions, marriage is not a hindrance but a requirement for completing one’s faith.

Ḥadīth 3: The Greatest Barakah in Nikāḥ is Simplicity

“The greatest of nikāḥ in terms of blessings is that nikāḥ where the burden is the least.”

Teaching: Keep Nikāḥ Simple

- The mahr should be such that the man can easily give it.
- The functions should not be a burden for either family.
- If Allah has given wealth and spending generously is easy and not burdensome, that is fine — the teaching is contextual.

- Warning: When nikāḥ becomes burdensome, the barakah is lost, and the effects show in the marital life itself.

Q&A: Should We Invite Everyone?

Q: If we invite more guests, will there be more barakah?

A (Teacher): The Ṣaḥābah were so simple that they would sometimes get married and the Prophet ﷺ would only find out later. He would then make du‘ā’ for them. There was no takaluf (formality). Whoever was available was enough. It can be a small family affair. The more ease and simplicity, the more barakah.

Q&A: Children’s Desires for Grand Weddings

Q: Children see grand weddings among peers and want the same. How do we address this?

A (Teacher): One must gently explain the teachings of the Sunnah — that simplicity brings the greatest barakah. This requires long-term tarbiyah: raising children with love for the Prophet ﷺ and his teachings, so they are willing to sacrifice customs and trends. The model is the Prophet ﷺ, not the culture around us.

Ḥadīth 4: Looking at the Prospective Spouse

Ruling

According to the Ḥanafī school and the majority of ‘ulamā’, it is permissible — in fact, mustaḥabb (recommended) — for a man to look at the woman he intends to propose to.

The Ḥadīth

A man came to the Prophet ﷺ and said he intended to marry an Anṣārī woman. The Prophet ﷺ said: “Go and look at her, for there is something in the eyes of some of the Anṣār.”

The Prophet ﷺ recommended looking because there may be a physical characteristic that could later become a source of discomfort.

Practical Process

The looking should not be the first step. The recommended sequence:

1. Initial inquiry: Send a female relative (mother, sister) to gather information — compatibility, character, background.
2. Assessment: If everything looks good,
3. Physical meeting: The man can then meet and look at the prospective bride.

What May Be Seen

- The face and hands only.
- She does not need to wear niqāb during this meeting.
- Other parts must remain concealed.
- She may also look at him.

Additional Points

- Photographs: Sharing pictures beforehand is also permissible.

- Even if decided: The teacher's shaykh advised that even if you have already decided, still meet in person — to practice the sunnah and earn the reward.
 - Right to say no: It is better to decline upfront than to proceed and have an unhappy marriage.

Ḥadīth 5: A Woman Must Not Describe Another Woman to Her Husband

“A woman must not touch the body of another woman [without garment in between], and she must not describe another woman to her husband, such that it is as if he were looking at her.”

A woman should be careful not to describe another woman's physical appearance to her husband, because:

- It could put waswasah (sinful thoughts) in the husband's mind.
 - She would be held responsible and sinful for doing so.

Closing

The class covered the opening aḥādīth of Kitāb al-Nikāḥ in Mishkāṭ al-Maṣābīḥ. Further aḥādīth on the etiquettes and rulings of marriage will continue in the next session, inshā' Allāh.

Masail e Qurbānī — Class 2 Summary

DATE May 24, 2026

TOPIC Qurbānī (continued) — sharing animals, age requirements, defects, method of slaughter, meat distribution & skin rulings

TEACHER Mufti Umar Aejaaz

Introduction

This class completes the study of Qurbānī masā'il from the kitāb Aḥkām e Eid al-Aḍḥā wa Qurbānī by Muftī Muḥammad Shafī' ʿUthmānī (rahimahullāh). Topics covered include sharing larger animals, age requirements, disqualifying defects, the masnūn method of slaughter, and rulings on meat distribution and animal skins.

Sharing a Larger Animal — Intention at Time of Purchase

Best Practice

A person purchasing a large animal (cow, buffalo, camel) should make the intention to share it with others before purchasing. This is the best and clearest option.

Purchasing Alone, Then Wanting to Share Later

Person	Ruling
Ghanī (rich / ṣāḥib al-niṣāb)	He may share it with others later. Since Qurbānī is wājib on his person (not the animal), one share in the animal suffices for his obligation.
Faqīr (poor / not ṣāḥib al-niṣāb)	He should not share it, because when he purchased the whole animal with the niyyah of Qurbānī, the obligation attached to the entire animal . However, some scholars permitted it even for a faqīr, though it would be makrūh — because it resembles rujūʿ (going back on a commitment in ʿibādah).

Advice: Decide before purchasing whether to keep the animal alone or share it.

Age Requirements for Animals

Animal	Minimum Age
Goat (bakrā / bakrī)	1 full year (Islamic calendar)
Ram / lamb (dumbā)	6 months — but only if it looks as healthy as a one-year-old. This exception applies only to sheep and ram.
Cow / buffalo	2 years
Camel	5 years

Important: Age is determined by days and years, not by teeth. Teeth can give an idea but are not the Sharʿī criterion. If the seller states the animal is of the required age and there is no solid evidence to reject his claim, relying on his statement is permissible.

Mixed Intentions Among Partners

Different partners in a shared animal may have different ʿibādah intentions — one for Qurbānī, another for ʿAqīqah, a third for Walimah, and so on. This is valid, as long as every partner has a niyyah of ʿibādah (a religious purpose involving slaughter). The specific type of ʿibādah may differ.

Castrated Animal (Khāṣī)

A castrated goat or other animal is not defective for Qurbānī purposes. In fact, it is afḍal (better) — the Prophet ﷺ himself slaughtered castrated animals. Castration makes the animal healthier, fattier, and the meat better.

Goat Alone vs. One Share in a Larger Animal

Which is better depends on the situation. In general, looking at current custom, a goat alone is often considered more virtuous because it is typically more expensive and the meat quality is better. But this varies by context.

Disqualifying Defects (ʿUyūb) — Three Core Principles

The animal for Qurbānī should be as healthy and fatty as possible. The Prophet ﷺ said: “Make your animals for slaughtering samīn (fatty, healthy).”

Three principles determine whether a defect disqualifies an animal:

1. A useful body part is missing completely, or one-third or more of it is gone — one-third is considered kathīr (significant) in Sharīʿah.
 2. Any defect that makes the animal defective in the eyes of traders (tujjār), reducing its market value.
 3. Any defect that causes damage to the meat itself.

Applying the Principles – Specific Cases

Defect	Useful Part?	Eligible?
No horns (by birth)	Horn is not a functionally useful part	Yes – eligible
Horn broken / uprooted affecting blood (dimāgh)	Becomes a health defect	No – not eligible
Blind in one or both eyes (or one-third of eyesight lost)	Eye is a useful part	No – not eligible
Severely lame (cannot walk to slaughter site)	Leg is a useful part	No – not eligible
Slightly lame (can still walk easily)	Minor defect	Yes – eligible
Too weak to walk (from illness)	Major health defect	No – not eligible
Tail missing or one-third cut	Tail is a useful part (removes flies, etc.)	No – not eligible
Ear missing or one-third cut	Ear is a useful part	No – not eligible
Ear split but still attached	Ear is intact, just has a cut	Yes – eligible
Ear missing from birth	Missing a useful part regardless of cause	No – not eligible
Majority of teeth missing (cannot chew properly)	Teeth are useful	No – not eligible
Some teeth missing (can still chew)	Minor defect	Yes – eligible
Mild allergy	Bearable, common	Yes – eligible
Severe allergy (bones visible, meat damaged)	Major health defect	No – not eligible
Udder: goat missing one of two	Half of udder gone	No – not eligible
Udder: cow with one of four defective	Only one-fourth affected	Yes – eligible
Udder: cow with two of four defective	Half affected	No – not eligible

Defect Appears After Purchase

Key uṣūl: The wujūb (obligation) of Qurbānī belongs to the person of the ghanī, but to the animal of the faqīr.

Person	Ruling
Ghanī (rich)	Must purchase a new healthy animal . The obligation is on his person, and he is required to slaughter a healthy one.
Faqīr (poor)	May slaughter the same defective animal . The obligation is on the animal, not on him personally. Sharī'ah does not force him to buy another.

Lost Animal Scenarios

Ghanī Loses the Animal

1. He must purchase another animal (obligation is on his person).
2. If the first animal returns, he only needs to slaughter one — his choice which one.
3. If the second animal is of lesser value than the first, he must give the difference in charity.

Faqīr Loses the Animal

1. Sharī'ah does not require him to purchase another (obligation was on the animal).
 2. If he does purchase another with niyyah of Qurbānī, that second animal also becomes wājib.
 3. If the first animal returns, he must slaughter both — because each animal independently carries the obligation.
 4. If the animal returns after Eid days, it cannot be slaughtered for Qurbānī. It (or its price) must be given in charity.

Masnūn Method of Slaughter

Who Should Slaughter

- The owner should slaughter by his own hands if capable.
- If not, another expert may slaughter on his behalf, but the owner should be present.
- If both the owner and an expert hold the knife together, both must say Bismillāh. If either omits it intentionally, the animal is not ḥalāl. Forgetting is excusable; not knowing the ruling is not — it is treated as intentional omission.

What to Say

Any name of Allah suffices (e.g., Allāhu Akbar), said with the intention of Qurbānī. The masnūn practice:

1. Before slaughtering:

إِنِّي وَجَّهْتُ وَجْهِيَ لِلَّذِي فَطَرَ السَّمَاوَاتِ وَالْأَرْضَ حَنِيفًا وَمَا أَنَا مِنَ الْمُشْرِكِينَ

“I have turned my face towards the One who created the heavens and the earth, as a ḥanīf, and I am not of the mushrikīn.”

Ref: Sūrah al-An‘ām (6:79)

1. At the time of slaughter: Bismillāhi Allāhu Akbar.
2. After slaughter: Allāhumma taqabbal minnī (or min fulān if on behalf of someone else).

Ādāb (Etiquettes) of Slaughter

- Place the animal facing the qiblah.
- Keep the animal in your custody for a period before slaughter (afḍal).
- Do not extract milk or use the animal for personal benefit after dedicating it. If any benefit is gained, give that amount in charity.
- Sharpen the knife properly — but not in front of the animal.
- Do not slaughter one animal in front of another.
- Do not drag the animal by its legs to the slaughter site.

- Do not rush to remove the skin — wait until the animal has fully cooled. Removing skin while the animal still feels pain is impermissible.

Baby Born from the Qurbānī Animal

If the animal gives birth before or at the time of slaughter:

- If the baby is large enough to yield meat: it must be slaughtered as well — it is part of the dedicated animal.
 - If the baby is too small (no benefit from slaughtering): it may be kept and slaughtered next year, or its price given in charity. Either way, it counts as part of this Qurbānī (not a new one).

One Partner Passes Away

If one of seven partners in a cow passes away before slaughter, the permission of all his warathah (heirs) is required before proceeding. If the animal is slaughtered without their consent, the Qurbānī is invalid for all partners — not just for the deceased's share.

Distribution of Meat

General Rule

The entire meat may be used personally. However, the mustahabb division is into three parts:

1. One-third for yourself and family.
2. One-third for friends and relatives.
3. One-third for poor people.

Dividing Meat Among Partners (Ribā Concern)

When partners divide meat from a shared animal, it is technically an exchange (mubādalāh) of meat for meat. Since meat exchanged for meat of the same genus requires strict equality, random division could involve ribā.

Solution: Add non-meat parts (liver, heart, head, skin, trotters) to each share. This creates a mixture of meat and non-meat, and the strict equality requirement is relaxed. Random (approximate) division then becomes permissible.

Commercial Use is Prohibited

No part of the Qurbānī animal (meat, skin, or otherwise) may be used for commercial purposes:

- Cannot sell the meat.
 - Cannot pay the butcher's wages from the meat or skin.
 - Cannot give the skin to anyone in exchange for services.

Rulings on the Skin

- The skin may be used for personal use.
 - If sold, the proceeds must be used to purchase something sustainable / non-consumable (e.g., household vessels) — not food.
 - The skin may be given in charity to the needy (most common practice). All partners must consent.
 - It may be given to a madrasah where needy students reside (and must be spent on those students).
 - It cannot be given to a masjid, or used for construction of masjid or madrasah buildings.

Miscellaneous Rulings

Substituting Qurbānī with Other Animals

Some people who are not eligible for Qurbānī slaughter a chicken or other small animal “to join in the spirit.” This has no basis in Islam and is considered manipulation of the aḥkām of Sharī‘ah. It is the way of ignorant people and should be avoided.

Closing

This concludes the study of Qurbānī masā’il from the kitāb of Muftī Muḥammad Shafi‘ ʿUthmānī. Classes now break for one week for the blessed days of Eid al-Aḍḥā. Regular Masā’il al-Ḥajj classes resume the following Monday, inshā’ Allāh.
